TAL H. STAFFORD

Who as Alumni Secretary is organizing and bringing State College alumni closer together for the good and advancement of our Alma Mater.

Who as a writer is keeping State College ever before the minds of the North Carolina public.

Who as a former State College star athlete and coach has ever taken a deep and undying interest in athletics here, and done everything possible to promote and back up our teams, and to inspire in us all the love of good sportsmanship and fair play.

Who as a man about the campus is known and respected by us all, we offer this tribute and dedicate this 1923 Agromeck.

⊕ FOREWORD ⊕

WE cannot represent in printer's ink the spirit, associations, or fellowship of State College, because these are too subtle and indefinable. But at any rate we can collect such pictures and manuscript, and assemble into this volume such material as will serve for many years to carry us back to the good old days at State.

Nineteen Twenty-Three's Agromeck has hoped to do more than give a cold history of the college year. It is intended to inspire us all with a fuller realization and appreciation of our Alma Mater, its spirit and work, its associations and friendships.

The staff has tried to make the 1923 Agromeck a memory book that will in some small way lighten the pain of leaving for those of us who are going out to perpetuate our institution's ideals and spirit in the State, and to keep ever fresh in our minds our memories of State College days. With this goal ever before us, we have planned and published this twenty-first volume.

The CAMPUS

Oh! State! Thy gleaming towers, and vines
That cling about thy walls,
Form memories that our heart entwines;
And trees, whose sighing falls
Like music on the ear, are seen,
Stretching their arms aloft,
As if to place themselves between
Our Alma Mater's soft
Green lawns and Danger's threatened stroke!
Though years may pass us by,
And friendships, once so firm, be broke,
These scenes can never die!

"Nineteen-eleven nestling homelike on the hill"

THE COLLEGE CREED

I. The North Carolina State College believes itself to consist, not merely of grounds and broad acres, and of buildings with their equipment, but also of a Board of Trustees, a Faculty, a Body of Students, and a fast-growing Host of Alumni.

DR. T. P. HARRISON
Dean of the College

II. The College believes itself immediately responsible to all the people of the State, who contribute to its support, and, in some degree, to the people of the whole United States, from whom also it receives benefaction. These it recognizes as its stockholders.

III. The College believes itself under obligation to declare a dividend upon the two millions of dollars invested in it, and the additional appropriation made each year to its use. This dividend it declares annually in the priceless product of approximately one hundred well-trained young men.

IV. The College believes in training these choice young men, in body, in mind, in spirit, to go out, not for self, but for service, into the State, through the length and breadth of the United States, throughout the world—wherever they can best serve.

V. The College believes the men it sends out can best serve the world in the three great interlocking departments of industry: Agriculture, Manufacturing, and Commerce. It therefore trains its students to till the ground, and to teach others to do so; to build and to manage machines and factories; to transform the force of river current into heat and light and power, and to deliver these where they can be used; to construct highways and railroads and bridges; to conduct banking, commerce, and lines of transportation.

VI. The College believes it, therefore, to be its high duty to educate these young men to earn a living in competency, and to live a life of service; "to see things"—material, intellectual, spiritual—"as they are, imagine them as they might be, and make them as they ought to be."

VII. The College believes that the men it sends out, coming as they do from that greatly favored land called Carolina, stretching from the azure ocean on the east to the sapphire mountains on the west, moved by the incentive it has inspired, shall, when the records of life are all in, each of them be worthy that it be said of him in truth, with proper pride, with due modesty:

*"Here was a man to hold against the world,
A man to match the mountains and the sea."*

STATE COLLEGE AND THE STATE

E. B. OWEN, '98

It is said that in the heart of Rome there once appeared a chasm apparently without bottom. All the combined efforts of the citizens were not able to fill it up. As time went on and every effort that could be put forth failed, the people became more and more anxious to see it filled until it became a matter of concern to everyone in Rome. Finally someone proposed that the chasm would close up if the most valuable thing in Rome were thrown into it. Then it must be decided what that most valuable thing was. As Rome's chief business had for a long time been war, it was easily decided that the most valuable thing was a soldier. So a soldier in full armor sprang into the chasm in the presence of a great assemblage of people. The chasm was immediately filled up and all Rome rejoiced.

In a country like ours, except perhaps in time of war, public opinion would not choose a soldier as the most valuable thing, but rather a man trained for the highest and most efficient service in connection with the arts of peace and the common good. In order that we may have the greatest number of these most valuable men trained in the arts of peace, our country and state give liberally out of the public treasury to found and maintain universities and colleges to carry on this work of preparing and training young men to take the places of older men in the march of human progress.

How far the nation and the State are going in the support of universities and colleges may be considered a measure of the value which they set upon an educated and trained man. In our own college the combined financial support of national and state governments amounts to a sum equal to $400 for every student who remains at State College for a year. This sum takes no account of the money which a student himself must pay for his own personal expenses. That sum is usually as great as that which comes from the governmental appropriations.

While the government is serving its own ends by doing so much for these young men, the obligation none the less rests upon them to make the best use of their opportunities in college, and after they go away, to serve the State unselfishly and to be loyal to the College in all of its efforts to train men to work efficiently. In that way they may help to bring better conditions of living to all of the people and thereby compensate for some of the benefits which they have enjoyed in college.

CHEMISTRY

Chemistry is a study of the composition and constitution of matter, and the changes which take place in it. It naturally forms a part of the curriculum leading to the Bachelor's degree in every institution of college grade, with few if any exceptions, regardless of whether the institution is liberal in culture, or technical in character. In this college, instruction in Chemistry begins with the Freshman year, and its courses are open to Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors. Graduate instruction also is provided for those holding the baccalaureate degree from this College, or from institutions of similar rank.

ENGLISH

"All that a University or final highest school can do for us," said Carlyle, "is still but what the first school began doing—teach us to read." This—to get the thought from the written page—the Department of English

DR. W. A. WITHERS

conceives to be its first duty to the student, regarding that duty as unfulfilled until the student can answer affirmatively the pertinent query: "Understandest thou what thou readest?"

Parallel with this first purpose, necessarily involved in it, sole conclusive evidence that the first has been accomplished, the teachers of English endeavor to impart the ability to express thought in the spoken and in the written word. This power to express thought is in turn coördinate with the cultivation of independent thinking, the prime essential in education.

The peril in technical education is the tendency toward materialism. Upon the Department of English devolves the task of counteracting this tendency by seizing every opportunity to introduce to the student that greatest and purest of humanizing agents, the record of its intellectual and spiritual experience mankind has made in literature.

MATHEMATICS

Mathematics has been appropriately called the Queen of the Sciences. Its applications are so interwoven with all forms of human thought and action that they cannot be separated from the development of the human race.

Every student's curriculum should require a course in Mathematics—not only for its aesthetic and cultural value, but because no other subject so thoroughly develops the mind and the imagination. The habit of accurate thinking and the forming of quick and correct decisions, acquired by its study, cannot be overestimated.

The Department of Mathematics at State College holds a unique place. Being a technical school, every engineering student is required not only to master the general theory of mathematics, but to obtain a thorough working knowledge of those principles he needs in his engineering course.

MODERN LANGUAGES

As a world power the United States occupies a position where it is necessary that her representatives in the business, diplomatic and social world should have a working knowledge of the countries to which they go. With this end in view, it is the aim of the Department of Modern Languages to instruct in French, German and Spanish with an eye not only to business but also to culture for we believe that it is then, and then only, that the student will get the kind of knowledge that will round out his education with pleasure and profit alike resulting. Students have displayed exceptional interest in our work in the past and for the future we anticipate a continuous growth of the department.

PHYSICS

The Physics Department, one of the most rapidly growing departments of the College, stands as the gate-way to Engineering. Here for the first time the future engineer begins to measure and compute the forces that are found in Nature. To control and develop the forces will be his occupation. Therefore the work in the Department of Physics in every way is made not only thorough but interesting. A certain element of "love at first sight" is encouraged in this first meeting and controlling of forces.

As other Sciences develop, they too find their bases lie in the interaction of forces. Even the chemist, who pairs off the atoms according to their affinities, has to ground himself here in the action of these forces as they produce attractions. The student of Agriculture seems a bit further removed until he begins to add to his great industry of production, machines to multiply force and control power; or again when he goes deeper into Nature's forces in soil and plant. Hence from every corner of the campus come the students to the Physics Department and find there a fuller understanding and ability gained in their respective fields.

THIS COLLEGE A TRAINING GROUND FOR NORTH CAROLINA AGRICULTURE

C. B. WILLIAMS, Dean of Agriculture

DEAN WILLIAMS

Never before in the history of North Carolina has it clearly been so important that those who in the future are to handle our most important industry—agriculture—shall receive the special training that will best equip them for the job. To do this most effectively, past methods must not be wholly depended upon. The courses of training in this and other colleges, as well as in the rural schools, will have to be drafted and followed with more consideration than has been given in the past to the probable future life of our boys. In this way can the schools and colleges offer the completest opportunities for young men of integrity, industry and initiative, who desire to be trained to think correctly about farm problems, and who properly prepared will be able to man farming operations on a scale sufficient to produce adequate returns.

Although this College now has a total of about five hundred students pursuing its different agricultural courses, the largest number in its history, this is only a start in the right direction. There should be, and will be, one thousand students within two or three years if adequate equipment and facilities are provided for giving information in agriculture in the way best suited for proper results. By meeting the growing educational demands of its young men, the State can do its first and best duty most effectively, for it will be helping to develop the lives of its future citizens to their greatest possible usefulness and service.

ENGINEERING

ELECTRICAL ENGINEERING

North Carolina is making wonderful strides in the use of electric power in the mill and home. The present rate of growth indicates that within ten years the amount of electric power needed in the State will be about three times that at present used. Hence the growth in the next few years must be more rapid than it has been in the past. The purpose of the course in Electrical Engineering at the State College is to help in this development by training in the fundamentals the men who are to carry on this work. No other branch of engineering requires more thorough preparation and a more ready grasp of theory, and this can be most satisfactorily secured through a well planned four-year college course.

PROF. WM. HAND BROWNE, JR.
Electrical Engineering

CIVIL ENGINEERING

The course in Civil Engineering is arranged to give the student an understanding of the principles underlying the various branches of this profession and at the same time teach him to apply these principles to the practical problems with which the engineer has to deal.

The professional work begins the second term of the first year with Engineering Lectures. The second year those students electing Architectural Engineering are given special instruction along this line. This work is continued through the third and fourth years. Those students taking the regular work leading to a degree in Civil Engineering may elect at the beginning of the senior year work in Highway Engineering.

PROF. C. L. MANN
Civil Engineering

MECHANICAL ENGINEERING

PROF. L. L. VAUGHAN
Mechanical Engineering

The course in Mechanical Engineering begins with a thorough training in mathematics, physics, and chemistry as a foundation for the technical work which is later developed along several parallel lines. The application of these fundamental sciences to the physical properties of the materials of construction and the relation of heat to engineering is brought to the attention of the student by courses in drafting, mechanics, and thermodynamics, and by work in the woodshop, forge shop, foundry, machine shop, and mechanical laboratory. While the aim of the course is pre-eminently technical, yet subjects of general culture are included in order to give the students a broader mental training and better preparation for the business and the social life which follows the period of college training.

STATE COLLEGE—THE TEXTILE SCHOOL OF NORTH CAROLINA

The purpose of the Textile Department is to instruct students in the theory and practice of cotton manufacturing in all of its details, from the bale to the finished fabric, and to give instruction in the scientific principles which underlie the construction of cotton machinery and its operation.

The instruction also covers the principles of designing so as to produce useful and artistic fabrics; textile chemistry, bleaching and dyeing, which are essential to the production of salable fabrics.

North Carolina is the leading cotton manufacturing state in the South and the Textile Department, which is the Textile School of North Carolina, is constantly adding new machinery to its equipment, so as to keep pace with modern requirements and the development of the textile industry in the State.

DR. C. C. TAYLOR

The Department of Agricultural Economics and Business Administration is in the third year of its existence. It was started in the fall of 1920. At first it was only a department of Agricultural Economics, though it did teach courses in General Economics, General Sociology, Industrial Management, and Industrial Sociology. At their May meeting, 1921, the Board of Trustees established the Department of Agricultural Economics and Business Administration and by so doing established two curricula in Business Administration. These two curricula lead to Bachelor of Science Degrees, one of them in General Business Administration and one in Industrial Management. In the fall of 1922 a curriculum in Agricultural Administration was added. This enlarged the Department to its present size. It is now giving three degrees, one in General Business Administration, one in Industrial Management and one in Agricultural Administration. In addition to these degrees it offers a major elective group in Rural Life as one among a number of such courses in the College of Agriculture.

The Department of Agricultural Economics and Business Administration has a two-fold function. It gives general service courses which students from all departments of the college may elect. These courses include all the general social sciences such as Economics, Sociology, Political Science, and History, and besides these a goodly number of more specialized courses in Economics and Sociology. Its second function is to give special training in Business Administration and Agricultural Administration.

The following table sets forth concretely the growth of the Department during the last three years:

	Teachers	Courses	Students	Student Hours	Students Registered for Degrees in Department
1920-21	1	11	444	671	1
1921-22	3	23	859	1813	17
1922-23	3½	30	991	2935	91

NOTE.—Student hours are calculated by multiplying the number of students enrolled in class by the number of hours of class meetings.

MISS MARY DANIELS	.....Assistant Dietitian
LOUIS HINES HARRIS	.....Steward
HUGH HAYNES TATE	.....Student Manager
ANDREW JACKSON CORPENING	.....Student Manager

The College dining hall has recently been enlarged and remodeled to keep pace with the rapid growth of the College. In fact, its capacity and facilities have been doubled. Thanks to the efficient management of Mrs. Nellie Price, this dining hall has sustained us well during our stay at State College. We appreciate Mrs. Price and her work here. Mr. Louis Harris, our steward, isn't seen so much, but he should also be thanked with Mrs. Price for his faithful service as provider. Tate and Corpening have been all that we could desire as student managers.

THE DORMITORIES

MRS. MASON	.....Matron
------------------	-------	-------	--------------------

The majority of the students at State live on the campus, since we now have sufficient dormitory accommodations for all. Mrs. Mason is filling a long-felt need at State College. She has a big job, and is really doing a great work for us boys by looking after our living quarters, and in general giving a woman's touch to our College dormitories. We are always glad to see Mrs. Mason on the campus with her cheerful smile.

THE LIBRARY

Mrs. CHARLOTTE WILLIAMSON — Librarian

Even if we haven't the best library in the State, we have the best librarian. Mrs. Williamson is more than willing to assist the men at this College in every way she can, and to look after new books, magazines, and home newspapers. There is an abundant array of technical and reference books for use in our work, as well as books of fiction for reading in our periods of relaxation. We hope soon to have a brand new library that will match any college library in the State of North Carolina.

THE INFIRMARY

DR. ALTON COOK CAMPBELL College Physician

MISS JOSEPHINE MAINOR, R. N. Hospital Matron

Mrs. ELLA HARRIS Hospital Matron

(Resigned February 1, 1923)

Dr. Campbell is a man after our own heart, because he understands college men, and treats us accordingly.

It was with much regret that we gave up Mrs. Ella I. Harris, a woman who had been a faithful foster-mother to all the boys at State College for the past thirteen years. She will be remembered and honored by us all, and our good wishes go with her.

However, Miss Josephine Mainor came to us at the beginning of February, and we are glad to welcome her to our college home with the hope that she will like our community.

We try to avoid the Infirmary when we are well but when we fall sick, we either make tracks for home or go to "this haven of refuge from illness." It's a mighty nice place to go when a fellow is not well.

HISTORY OF '23

BOSTIAN
Freshman President

It is impossible by a simple narration of events to give a true history of our four years in College. There are incidents to be sure, which stand out in our minds. They are clustered with memories, pleasant or unpleasant. But a very great part of our college life has been made up of the usual things and the daily routine. There is the rising whistle which shatters our dreams, there is the call to the familiar breakfast menu, the chapel period and the morning classes, each with its particular personality or atmosphere. There are the drill periods, the afternoon classes, and the evenings dedicated to mental toil or a carefree trip down town. Throughout all this there has been interwoven a constant contact with the other students, the professors, and the college atmosphere. A history should not overlook these things but it must concern itself primarily with the narration of events in the order of their happening.

On September 3, 1919, the Class of '23 officially came into existence. We passed individually through the different acts of the registration process. After a few days of bewildering confusion we settled down in the prescribed channels of the college machinery. There were hitches here and there but they were soon smoothed out. The different instructors took us in charge and began the refining process. They must have made the most of the great opportunities for development in the material before them. Of course they set themselves stoutly to the task and did their best. If the results seem less than perfection we will make no attempt to lay the blame on their shoulders. They should be praised for what they did accomplish.

A few days after registration a class meeting was called and the class had the first look at itself. Justly or unjustly, it was rather proud of what it saw. Election of officers was proposed. This induced a mild wave of oratory, and the class found itself with an able staff of officers.

No history of a Freshman year would be complete without reference to a Sophomore class. The Class of '23 is no exception. It found a perfectly normal and able-bodied Sophomore class fully entrenched on the grounds. The newcomers were visited, entertained and called upon to entertain. They responded with varying degrees of readiness and success. Sometimes the meetings were only moderately enjoyed by some of those present. After some weeks, the Sophomores decided to withdraw most of the entertainment. Time-honored customs were discontinued and the Freshman path took on a more rosy hue.

Time sped swiftly. The obstacles were passed one by one. We were constantly reminded that there is no down stream route to a college diploma. Some of the class fell by the way but the majority passed the spring exams and were ready for the second lap.

Then came our Sophomore year. At its very beginning our ranks were pervaded in a greater or less degree by that age-old Sophomore spirit. Class numerals blossomed out in various high places. Informal calls were made upon members of the Freshman class. The real purpose of snow and snowballs was discovered and duly exploited. The class seemed to have been released into a new freedom characterized by a desire to pass through this dangerous period with no record to be ashamed of and no ill-feeling from the following class.

Among the most pleasant events of our Sophomore year were the receptions at Meredith and our Sophomore reception to Peace Institute. It was about this time that various members of the class suddenly acquired an interest in one of those institutions. If we were writing individual histories we would find some other institution other than State College drawing a large share of our subject's interest and loyalty.

With somewhat reduced ranks we registered for our Junior year. This year is usually considered a sort of classification to designate that period of time in which the student recovers from Sophomore boisterousness and catches the reputed dignity of the Senior. It is a combined convalescent and contagion period. Our own case seems to bear out this impression. We probably remember fewer incidents of our Junior year than of any other year. At the same time one probably felt less conspicuous and less important.

It was with a feeling of relief that we finally stepped forth into our Senior year, as the last lap in our college race. Its first impressions were not what we had expected. We found ourselves more conscious of the things we did not know than of the things we did know. Somehow we had failed to accumulate that vast store of knowledge which we once ascribed to college Seniors.

Near the beginning of this year a cherished class dream came true. A section of concrete bleachers bearing the class numerals was completed. This project had inspired more oratory in class meetings than any other one item. It was a distinct relief to orators and listeners to rest upon this much talked of subject.

As graduation is about to become a memory we may well look at our college life as a whole. In athletics the Class of '23 has furnished a generous share of players for gridiron, cage, track, and diamond. From the bleachers we have proclaimed our support long and heartily. College publications and college activities have received our support. In scholarship the class may well be proud of its position. In the installation and support of Student Government the Class of '23 is second to none.

From back through the months we call up a flood of memories. We will ever remember the struggle to pass some difficult subject, the fear of failure and the satisfaction of final victory. Perhaps it was some coveted honor, scholastic or athletic. In any case we will remember the struggle long after the honor itself will have paled in significance. There was the ever-widening circle of friends among the students and faculty. All these things have made up a period in our development and a phase in our life. They have given us a love for the familiar scenes, the old friends, and the College itself which will last through the years.

"Sam" is a great exponent of the theory of "vitamines" and it is rumored he often eats sawdust for this vital element. He is also an admirer of Lady Nicotine, and President Harding. Besides "rolling his own," he occasionally indulges in a cut of old "Brown's Mule." Though he very seldom expresses himself we all know by his frequent trips to the Postoffice that he is not going to sail the sea of life alone. As yet he is not a married man but we are sure that he has a better start than most of us.

Sam has been a conscientious worker because he came to College with an aim. He has been a good student in his department, and will carry our recommendation with him in his life work. We are all proud of Allred.

"Kid" came down from the mountains with so much speed that he hasn't stop going yet. He is good at getting work done—by other people—and his highest ambition used to be to leg the Colonel enough to rate a sponsor in the Agromeck. He always has something to say, and when raincoats are donned and umbrellas are raised you may know he is expounding at great length. We only hope that since his only other desire is to sleep that he won't go into a state of coma and starve to death.

"Kid" is a friend indeed, kind-hearted, willing, and one of the hardest workers on the campus, so we aren't worried about his future. He is bound to "carry on" as he did in France with the A. E. F., and amount to something.

But this is not his only gift, musically for he is the backbone of the "peck horn section" in Percy's band.

After four years of association with him, we have found him to be one of the best known and liked members of the class, and we believe that he has the ability for success and the application to make it real.

You have read of ladies' men, and heard of ladies' men, but here is the original ladies' man. And the sad part about it is that he himself just found this out during his Junior year. We don't know how many he has on his string, but we do know that he is an old regular at Meredith. He even admits that he moved over to South to get nearer the telephone.

Jack is a Math. wizard. He was never known to miss a problem. In fact, he has very little trouble with any of his work. His hard, steady, working qualities will stand him in good stead when he leaves State.

If you didn't see him yourself, you'll think this cartoon a good yarn, because it took such a short time to transform "Barney" into a regular college man. He still retains, however, deep in his heart the "true blue" that he brought with him on the old N. S. that September morning, and he always will. Everybody on the campus likes Bill, and Bill likes everybody. He has worked hard with the track team, and has made a fine Track Manager.

Bill has taken Textiles as "his calling"—he likes it, and works hard at it, and a man of his calibre will make a real executive some day. A good pal, a good man, and a future executive.

When we used to hear "If you don't like that let's go outside and fight it out," we didn't form a ring, but knew right away that Robah was only showing his affection for one of his classmates. He eats all the "chewing gum weed" he can bum and once in a while buys some himself to chew. One or two of his classes used to interfere greatly with his chewing until he solved the problem by inventing a waterproof pocket. He helped Skin. By far his greatest accomplishment, however, used to be his ability to persuade the profs. that he was sick at the beginning of every three-hour period along in the spring fever season.

All of this doesn't keep Robah from being willing, loyal, and big-hearted, which makes him a genuine '23 man. We'd bet our last dollar on such a man.

"L. D.," the wit of his class, comes to us from Pilot Mountain. He is well known, for he usually greets the boys of the class by saying, "Have you had heard this one?" and he will proceed with one of his good stories. "Let's go to Charlie's and get a dope," is a typical expression of his.

Though he is seldom heard speaking of the ladies, it does not mean that he does not like them. It seems that he has the knack of getting in with them that quite a few of us would be glad to acquire.

"L. D." has already gained a good start with the Bridge Department of the State Highway Commission, and are not worrying about him when he goes out from State.

Benfield came to us in 1919 and began taking Physics along with the other courses of his Freshman year. Dr. Dairy-O told us the other day that Mr. Benfield must be specializing in physics since he was still taking it.

Other things being equal, however, we think that Physics is a mere side issue, sort of a diversion perhaps, and that Bracknel's real vocation is in growing seed potatoes for the commercial market in North Carolina. We wish you the best of luck, old boy, and feel sure you will succeed for the laborer is worthy of his hire and that surely must apply to us tillers of the soil.

Benfield served with the Fifth Division in France for about eighteen months during the World War, and was in three or four major battles, being wounded in the Meuse-Argonne fighting.

Behold the musical genius of '23. "Bill" can get more music out of two dishpans than Sousa can get out of his whole band, but he doesn't play a dishpan usually. He isn't stingy at all with his music, as the fair damsels at the girls' colleges, and the boys on the campus can testify. He is naturally popular with both girls and boys.

"Doolie" started out taking Electrical, but later decided that he wanted to investigate "spinning looms" and the textiles rejoiced for there is something to him. He carried a heavy schedule as a consequence, but he went to work and passed everything off creditably. "Budisxyzqwljevichk," commonly known as "Budy," hails from Serbia, and he is far from being a bolshevik, for he entered at once into the college activities, and we all agree that he is one of the best natured and most congenial boys in the class. This student of sterling qualities is little affected by outside forces such as the fairer sex or literary laurels, but is content to be at the head of his class along practical lines. His sound ideas and ideals are going to crown his future life and he will be a leading figure in his native country. You are going far away from us, "Budy," but we know you won't forget us entirely.

Corporal, 2, Sergeant, 3; Camp McClellan Club; McDowell County Club, 3, 4; Tompkins Textile Society, 2, 3, 4; Post Graduate in Research.

Green as the shamrock from old Ireland came William Taylor from the Blue Ridge section of the State, bent on a conquest of worldly knowledge. He hails from the metropolis of Old Fort, if there is such a place.

Burgin is a good example of the self-made, industrious college man. He has a pleasing personality, can adapt himself to any undertaking and can be relied upon to do his best at all times. If Burgin adapts himself to his work out of college as he has here, his success in life is certain. "Bill" has made a host of friends here and is a popular and loyal '23 man.

"Sol" or "Bob" comes to us from Charlotte, not exactly Charlotte, but about 50 miles down Main Street. He is always an authority on Engineering subjects, and can offer good council on most any subject. Bob loves the ladies as few men do, and will walk for miles just for one more look or smile. In social circles he is always right there with the goods, makes a real hit, and then goes back again.

The C. E. Department sends out in Bob, a real Engineer for the good old North State.

Here we have an outstanding example of an all-round man. "Fessor" has excelled in his class work, and in fact has made good at everything he has attempted during his four years at State. Always has "Fessor" been an entertaining talker, and to prove our confidence in him he has been chosen as Commencement Orator for the Mechanicals. He has proven his executive ability by the excellent manner in which he has filled the chair of the A. S. M. E.

We have found him to be a fine man of strong character, of a cheerful and winning personality, and a true friend to all. His popularity and success at this institution indicates that which we may expect from him in future life.

"M. D., Freckles, Marguerite, Country," or most anything you want to call him also hails from the rural districts of Charlotte. He is about the only Civil Senior who can claim the distinction of having Raleigh society give parties, dinners, and dances in his honor. The invitations always read "In honor of Freckles C."

"Marguerite" does not smile all the time but when you see him smile or laugh you can tell it is from his heart. He loves a joke very much when it is on some one else.

In his Freshman year, Clark won fame as a scrapper. Since then as a consistent worker, he has made a good record and will, we are certain, make good at engineering. He is certainly a self-educated man and a hard worker.

TSONG-CHIEU CHANG

Treasurer, State College Cosmopolitan Club, 4.

Though he has been with us only one year, Chang has by his previous experiences in Georgia and elsewhere proven to us that the Chinese are able to become almost real Americans. He has been able in many instances to give those interested in Agriculture some first-hand facts concerning the practices of Asia. Chang expects to go back home, and help bring China to the forefront in Agriculture.

Through his outspoken, free, congenial ways, Chang has won the friendship of not only all the students on his classes, but the instructors as well. Possibly on his return to China, American markets will again be swamped with eggs and rice.

"E. R." the sailor, hoisted anchor from Elizabeth City and laid out his course for State College. Here he embarked on a four-year cruise with a college diploma as the object of his quest. He has weathered every storm with a smile which grows broader as he sees the sought-for haven. We salute him as his ship comes in.

"Bub" is a hard worker and altogether likeable, with a long string of other good qualities. In the voyage of life he may be trusted to bring his ship into whatever port duty may call.

"Jack" started out with the class of '21, but the World War came along and delayed him for several years in the making of his career.

He is best known on the campus through his position as official whistle blower in the "Mess Hall," and we are sure that he would make a good traffic cop if he ever has occasion to abandon the textile world.

He is an exceptionally good student which is proven by the fact that he has received only one of those "flunk slips" during his four years here. We are sure that he will some day make a great name in the world of cotton.

William, a product of South Carolina, stands out as being our star track man, and is Captain of the 1923 team. He is sometimes called "Race Horse" Corkill, which is a very appropriate name, for he is speed itself.

Corkill is right there with the goods. It isn't a task for him to find the stresses in a truss or bridge but it comes as if it were a matter of habit and only to be expected. He says he does not know whether he will take up Civil Engineering or Banking, but in either we predict success for him.

"Shorty" because of his frank disposition and unquestioned ability, is one of the most popular men in our class.

He believes the Old North State to be the best in the Union—except South Carolina. "Shorty" says a combination of work and play is a good rule to follow. Best of all, he lives up to this standard, being one of the best students in our class without letting work take away the other pleasures of life.

We wish you well, "Shorty," and feel certain that your career will be successful. Cornwell has always been an asset to the class, ever willing to help out and do more than his part "irregardless" of what anyone else does.

WILLIAM THOMAS COX
 GOLDSBORO, NORTH CAROLINA
Civil Engineering

Freshman Football Team, 3; Varsity Football Team, 4; Wayne County Club, 3, 4; C. E. Society, 4; Sergeant-at-Arms, 4.

Cox or "Tubby" came to us from Guilford College in our Junior year, but it did not take him long to work himself in as one of us boys.

"Tubby" has the distinct honor of being the organizer of the "Garloon Society," a benevolent society for the interest of homeless and heart-broken freshmen, and was unanimously chosen as its first "Garbodine."

Cox is one of our best varsity football men and a man of whom the student body, College and Alumni are proud. Aside from being a star football man he stars in his class work, having carried and passed with credit thirty-seven hours of work in one semester, being out for football practice at the same time. He enjoys a good joke even if it is on himself, often being told to go to Goldsboro, without getting mad.

LOUIS SAMUEL CRISP K Σ

Freshman Football Team; Tompkins Textile Society; German Club; Pan-Hellenic Council, 3, 4; Pitt County Club, President, 4.

After going to Davidson College for a year, "Louis" decided that he wanted to be a Textile manufacturer. Joining our ranks in his Sophomore year, he has ever proven himself an asset to our class.

He is very popular with the boys, but he is ever so much more popular with the ladies, and rates ace high among the Raleigh damsels.

"Louis" does not like to listen to a lot of dry theories—he would much rather enjoy a peaceful nap; because of this little tendency he is recognized as the champion sleeper of our class, at one time being decorated personally by the Colonel.

We feel that with his natural energy and his ability to put across a thing when he desires to, Crisp will accomplish something worth while in the Textile business.

We are continually finding out something new about "Runt." For instance, who among us knew he was a boxer? Yea, even of the best of them. At Camp McClellan we found this satellite of the fistic world. After his famous fight we called him "K. O. Runt."

"Runt's" studies have been his chief worries. He has managed to come through with the rest of us, though. We admire his pluck and his quality of sticking on the job. These qualities will do much for him in life.

Besides being a boxer, "Runt" is something of a track athlete, showing up well in the State cross-country meet, and we expect him to help us out this spring.

If we were asked to point out the most popular man in the Senior Class, or at least in the Electrical Division, our finger would instinctively move into the general direction of "Shorty," or "Shortcomings," as he is sometimes playfully called by his classmates. With all of his varied college activities, however, "Shorty" has had plenty of time to engage in social and radio affairs. Every day of the four years that we have known "Shorty" has made us like him better, and we feel that his high character and wonderful personality cannot but make him into a great servant of the State and Nation.

Here is one of the most care-free boys in our class who never worries about anything. Yet "Harry" has endeared himself to the heart of every student by his athletic abilities. He is perfectly at home on the basketball floor and makes them all whiff the air on the baseball diamond. He has the reputation of doing more with less effort than any man in the class.

Though "Harry" denies it, there is constantly a rumor about that he is sometime soon to play the leading part in a marriage ceremony. If so, we wish them both the best of luck.

We are all proud to have had him as a classmate and are sure he will make a name for himself both in the business and baseball world.

"Daughtride" is from Rocky Mount, and you would think that he is a hard boy, but he is just a big-hearted fellow, true to the type that his weight indicates. "Stanley" is a good friend, roommate and companion. He is a consistent worker and his only enemy is the fellow that blows the unearthly foghorn which means he must wake up for another class. For all that, since entering college he has found out that New Jersey is not a city, and that it is not necessary for him to knock before entering a church, so we are all sure that he will be something in his community.

He does not have much trouble with the ladies, that is, plural; for he has only one that troubles him. Good luck to you both.

CLARENCE EVANS DEDMON

Cleveland County Club, 2, 3, 4, Vice-President, 3, President, 4; Student Branch A. S. M. E., 3, 4, Vice-President, 4; Junior Class Basketball, 3; Basketball Squad, 4.

"C. E." is by no means the dead man that his name indicates. He goes out into the "city" sometimes several nights a week. We don't know who the lucky (?) girl is, but he most assuredly does.

"Clarence" has been a hard worker on the basketball squad during part of his time here, and has played in several games.

He is quiet, but not too quiet, enjoying fun as well as anybody. He is by no means a weakling, and is strong and steadfast in his purposes. A hard worker, a fair student, one who holds on to what he studies—that is "Clarence." He will never rise like a rocket, but he will surely rise, and we're betting he will never fall.

"Dick," better known as "Diesel Engine" is one of those boys who figure that studying and going on class are two entirely unnecessary evils. His hobby is "Diesel Engines," and his chief pastime is dancing. He has never had to say "Excuse me" at a dance, and he makes them all. He says his girl back home is too young yet, but you never can tell. "Dick" is a fast worker.

He has been a hard worker on the football field, and played in several big games. "Dick" has many latent possibilities. He can do anything he wants to do, and do it well. His frank, open, friendly manner makes everybody his friend, and wherever he goes we know "Dick" is going to be "on the job."

Alamance County Club, 2, 3, 4, Treasurer, 2, Vice-President, 3, President, 4; Textile Society, 2, 3, 4; Camp McClellan Club; Senior Textile Football Squad.

"Dick" is a rugged product of the Mebane wilds. He is a powerfully constructed man, with a grip of iron and there is no member of the Senior Textile class or machine in the Textile building upon which he has operated that does not bear the marks of his mighty talons. He has a soft musical voice like the blast of a ferry boat whistle on a foggy morning and sings bass in the Textile choir.

But "Dick's" strength does not all lie in his big frame. He is also one of the leading intellectuals of his class, and we predict for him a stupendous success in the textile industry. When a fellow gets in a "bind," all he has to do is call on "Dick."

"Si," the social leader of the class, is liked by us all. He likes to joke, and can take a joke as well as give one. In him you find a sincerity rarely encountered. Like many others in the class, he had a little trouble with Calculus, but he came out on top.

While on a trip out West during Christmas holidays of his Junior year, he had an experience that is quite interesting to hear, if one is lucky enough to ever get him to tell about it.

"Si" has a pleasing personality, and a "line" that you are almost compelled to fall for. It is generally understood that quite a few of the Raleigh girls have heard this "line," and have fallen thereby. Good luck to you, "Si," old boy.

"Dunk" is the eagle-eyed sharpshooter of our class, holding the office of "Range Officer." He has piloted the rifle team through a most successful season, he himself being one of the best shots in the "aim, squeeze, and puncture the bull's eye brigade."

"Dunk" has never been a seeker after the fair sex, but may be that's an honor. To say the least, it is most convenient and economical.

He is a steady, reliable man, and a good student. Having a well developed sense of humor, he has enjoyed Frank Baker's witticisms to the utmost. He is a man we are all glad to call a member of our class. We believe he will "get there" in anything he undertakes.

Here is another one of the buddies who have made the '23 class popular and famous. His popularity isn't limited to his classmates and college friends, but is applicable to all his acquaintances, both boys and girls, especially girls. It wouldn't seem natural to stay on the campus without "Seven Fingers." Although he has but seven fingers he makes a handy barber, and he can do more things with this finger handicap than most of us can with our ten.

While he has never shown any special brilliancy in his class work, "Sam" is a hard and consistent worker, and all in all, a credit to the class.

"Hunk" is from the Tobacco City, but is not affected seriously by that for he is strong, robust and good-looking, and sought by all the fair damsels. His highest ambition is that the Coach will save a seat for him on the side line in basketball and also a place at the training table.

In case of any transferal or payment of debts he is unanimously considered to be the best, as he has demonstrated here on the campus.

With all his honors he has made a success in his work, and we all wish him well, but we know it is going to be a hard proposition for him to get the Twin City alderman to let him keep his cows, horses, pigs and chickens in his front yard down on Taylor Street.

"Farrington" is a rare character and if a certain scientist had known him, his search would have been ended. He is talented in music and often reverts to the prehistoric howl commonly known as yodeling. His other accomplishment is "saying" French, as he can jabber it off by the mouthful. His frequent visits to the Post Office would indicate an unusual amount of mail but since that is not the case you would best ask the postmistress for full information. He never has a worry as shown by his musical disposition, and many more friends are sure to hestet his pathway as he goes on in his upward journey through life.

"Fergie" heard the call of State College all the way from Richmond, State of Virginia. At first it was hard to differentiate "Fergie" from his classmate, "Pat." Now after four years of guessing we think this is "Fergie" and Prof. McIntyre guesses rightly sometimes. "Fergie" has managed to carry a heavy schedule in Raleigh and in College with about the least possible interference, and good success. It is about an even guess as to which field he really specialized in.

"Fergie" has many likeable qualities, and a great deal of ability, developed and undeveloped. He can be expected to make good anywhere, any place, any time.

"H. Lee" or "Bud" is a man who loves the ladies and one, by the way, that the ladies love. Just inquire into his summer school record and you will find that this is but an introduction to "Bud's" social career.

Having lost his right arm on the Argonne front, he joined the class of '23 with a determination and vim that has put him well toward the top of his class. "Fisher" is always cheerful and has a good word for all which has won for him the entire student body and faculty as his friends. "Checker Joe" hails from a mountain town bearing his name, which shows that he is already having towns named for him. He is one of those fellows who when he falls for a girl, falls hard. Then when something happens to mar this happiness and bliss, such as he or she falling for someone else, he merely hangs crepe over her picture and goes on as though nothing had ever happened. He is a cheerful sort of fellow, and has a good word for all.

"Joe" is a hard worker and has made a good record both in College and in his work along engineering lines.

Overseas Club, 1, 2, 3; Tennis Club, 3.

After helping rout the Hun in Flanders, "C. W." decided to come to State and do another good job by preparing himself to push North Carolina to the top as a Textile manufacturing state.

"Charlie" possesses those coveted and much talked of qualities—persistence and perseverance. His greatest ambition is to be the manager of a prosperous mill as well as a happy home.

"C. W." is a good student and one who loves his work—also the fairer students. His favorite form of recreation is climbing Fair Ground fences by the moonlight. As for his success in life we have no doubts.

E. E. Society, 3, 4, President, 4; Gaston County Club, 2, 3, 4, Secretary-Treasurer, 3; R. O. 1, C., Sergeant, 3, First Lieutenant, 4; Alpha Sigma Epsilon.

"Zeb" will doubtless be honored by the French Academy of Science when that famous body learns of his painstaking and faithful research into the French language. Until then Zeb must content himself with being head of that electrifying body, the Electrical Society. "Zeb" became famous around Camp McClellan for his work as catcher for the famous Company "E" team. In spite of the fact that his morning beauty nap used to be disturbed we will have to admit he is still fairly handsome.

"Zeb" has many friends, and everybody likes him. "Zeb" is a man of character and well-rounded ability. The whole class and his home town of Gastonia can well be proud of him.

"Captain Harris" is our best looking soldier. When he dons his uniform, leather leggings and "dog harness" then we feel proud of our whole Military Department. Not only in military does he shine but in civilian life he makes a figure that the girls like to gaze upon, whether in Raleigh or in his own home town of Seaboard.

A man possessing the above advantages can succeed in more ways than one, and as the years go by we hope that we will be able to find his name in the midst of business activities as well as social.

"Kid" is a good pal and has a pleasing personality, and he has a lot of friends here at State.

Nevertheless he has achieved honors as he has been to New York City several times as a member of the Poultry Judging Team, and ought to be a good judge of "chickens." He hasn't learned yet that the campus is the place to stay at night, so some girls gets a treat most every night.

"Joe" has many friends on the campus, and among the femmes. He believes in love at first sight.

His sunny disposition, friendliness, and unusual ability will certainly carry him through in great style.

Perseverance personified, here we find in "Czar." If stick-to-it-iveness has anything to do with a success in life, then "J. C." is undoubtedly our most promising classmate. But with all the industry native to his character, "J. C." has not been unmindful of the social side of life, nor of the emergencies that may arise in the future, for it has been whispered around the campus already that he has been oftentimes in conference with one of the contractors of Raleigh, who specializes in dwellings. His sojourn down in Camp McClellan was rendered much more enjoyable than is usually the case, because of the promptness with which he was informed of the doings back in the Old North State. Good luck, "Czar!"

"Bill" hails from the hilly suburbs of Mt. Airy. He is always anxious to entertain you with one of his jokes and he gets them in good style. During our freshman year this young fellow found great pleasure in dancing with the fair sex of Raleigh, so much in fact that during his senior year he opened up a dance hall of his own. The girls claim he has made a howling success in this phase of his college work.

"Bill" has made friends with every one during his stay at school. His greatest ambition is to see the world made better from the standpoint of engineering. "Bill's" record shows that he is capable and reliable, and nothing can keep him down.

Corporal, 3; Student Branch, A. I. E. E., 3, 4; Lieutenant, 4; Mat and Mitt Club, 4.

"I. D." comes from Wilkesboro, county of Wilkes. He doesn't talk a great deal about the home back there or his plans in general but that dreamy look which comes into his eyes over a lighted pipe provides food for speculation. It may be Dad's table, some fair face back home, or some cherished hope. Anyway it must be pleasant and we hope it comes true.

Henry has met the College trials with a smile and always came out on the top side. We can't help feeling that he has not really had a test of strength yet, but that when one does come up, "Dawk" will not be found wanting.

"Richmond" says he is no relation to the man that treated the Merrimac so roughly during the Spanish-American War, but anyway we believe he "is just as good." "G. S." found his Calculus such a big cinch that he is still wondering why so many of the boys take it seriously. "G. S." says that Sterling is his middle name, and that certainly does describe him about as well as we could think out. One seldom hears from "G. S." unless application is made to him direct, and even then he is very "concise," as Doctor Harrison would say it. We are great believers in the still-water-runs-deep theory, and for that reason we are expecting great things from "Richmond" later on, whether it be in Greensboro or in Argentina. Here's luck to you, Hobson, in all that you do.

"John" is a natural business man, born salesman, and a gentleman. He has taken an active part in every agricultural promotion on the campus with the same spirit and made the N. C. State Agricultural Fair possible.

When returning from home he wears a down-hearted expression which makes us believe that his heart is still in Georgia and that leaving home is the hardest thing he has to do. With his fluent line he never fails to put a thing across and we are sure that he will win the girl of his heart as well as an exalted place in the sun.

"Jack" is rarely ever heard from but we know that he is here for he is always on class but says that over 60 is wasted energy. He knows more ways of cooking ham and eggs than there is Greek letters in the alphabet, and this will serve as a recommendation for him when he starts to look for a wife. He still believes that "Heckology" is a disease rather than a course and freshman algebra should be taken continuously.

"Jack" never has much to say, but whenever we think of him we think of that old proverb "Deep waters flow with the least sound," and know that he is big and good in all his dealings and friendships.

"Babe" comes from that part of the map called Lincolnton. In stature, "Babe" is not very impressive, but in the modern measure of a man avoirdupois is not a deciding factor. He knows enough about the haunts and habits of electricity to equip several larger heads with a fair sized stock. He understands what makes a telephone "tell" and much similar data.

"Babe" has many likeable qualities which have made him many friends. He is quiet and retiring but he has the ability and the energy which are sure to carry him on in this world.

He is not only good in Physics, but has topped the class all through his college career. "Bill" is always ready to talk either about "sail boats" or his trip to Boston Tech. He was never a ladies' man until his senior year and it has been rumored that he lost his heart in Elizabeth City.

His straight-forward manner, his undying energy and his desire to do things will surely carry him high.

"Big John" alias Wilburn, is a big boned, big hearted man, a man who hasn't changed a bit since he entered college—certainly not for the worst in any way.

He is a frequent visitor at Meredith, though in our opinion he hasn't "fallen" yet. Also he is noted for wearing the largest shoes in his class—well, he is a big man.

We've known him for four years and he has always shown a quiet but strong steadfastness of purpose that when the great "Battle of Life" is over, and it comes time to count the scalps, you can safely bet your goodly ducats that "Big John" will be there with more than enough to qualify.

"James," better known as "Shag," hails from the nearby city of Weldon. While he has never won many honors in scholarship, he has always been there when the roll was called for the next higher class. You can depend on "Shag" to always give you a square deal.

But he ranks with the best of them when it comes to the social life of the College. Many are the fair ones that have fallen for his fair face and wonderful smile.

He also won honors for himself as the "dashing back" of the Senior Textile football team. As for his future we can assure him this much: If he makes as big a success in his "leap through life" as he did in his work with the "Flying Squadron" his business future is going to be good.

The pleasant, well-fed expression on "E. A.'s" face ought to be set up as something for all good housewives to strive to produce in their husband's faces. But going deeper into this subject, or face we mean, there is a brain well stocked with facts electrical and a voice which has greeted radio fans for hundreds of miles around with "This is WLAC, the radiophone station." Then "E. A.'s" voice takes on a softness as if it was intended to carry to one ear alone somewhere back home or wherever "she" lives.

"E. A." has been a trusty supporter of the radio station, a sort of power behind the scenes. His modesty and attention to duty has won for him the admiration of the whole class.

"Chicken" also belongs to the "Capon Society" and "chickens" interfere seriously with his education. He is well known among the Faculty and especially loved by Prof. Heck.

"Chicken" is a member of the student body, and is a good student, although he had some trouble with Freshman Physics, it is rumored.

"D. L." is one of the boys here who gave the Huns their just deserts and came back with marks showing that he was in the thickest of the fight. However, he did not let this keep him from pressing on and getting an education. He has the "stuff" and has made good at the task, which all goes to show that he can do anything he tries.

"Red" as you can tell by his name is a brilliant boy and a shining light on the campus, even though a certain young lady once said that if her fellow couldn't have red hair she had rather he would be bald-headed. He don't social much, but he says "he is afraid it might get back home," and you can't blame him much. We are hoping Charlie's Cafe will continue to operate after he leaves, but it is doubtful. He has to go home and get married, so we will let him off.

"Tom" has a sunny disposition, and is a real friend that you can depend upon under any circumstances. He likes Agriculture, and we wish him the best of luck.

The greatest density of possibilities in the Electrical class is probably found wrapped up in "Leroy." There is no problem nor any condition that would for a moment stall him. Whether it is Professor Browne's tantalizing little word "Why?" or Johnnie Foster's summation of forces, or an English thesis, it is all the same to "Leroy." Finding the college courses such a great cinch, he was compelled to branch out in search of new worlds to conquer, and in this work he progressed so rapidly that he was forced to enlist the aid of a Ford in order to keep up with his increasingly rapid schedule. Although "Keever" is a native of the West, he is not loath to taking a trip "down east," where the scenery seems to have a soothing effect on his nerves. Success, that's it, "Leroy."

Here is a man that would have been valedictorian of the class if he had taken his books more seriously. "Kelly" makes good records on his classes but the least of his worries is studying hard. But he doesn't have to. Naturally you would think him Irish, and if you could see him among the fairer sex it would confirm your belief for they just naturally fall for his winning ways, natural wave, and smiling countenance.

He has made a host of friends at State. The Irish in you, "Harvey," will give you luck, happiness and success.

"Kendrick" is a quiet, unassuming kind of fellow who came here for a college education. Beyond a doubt he is the hardest worker in our class. He acts according to the dictates of his own conscience and detests a dictator.

As a lady's man he is not very well known in Raleigh but out in Fallston we have heard of "two angel-eyes" of which he constantly dreams.

He boasts of nothing he does, always striving to make each moment worth while. He is quite above the average in his work and there is no doubt but that he will make a success in his future work, whether it be farming or any other work.

Now here is "Bobbie," a typical "lady killer," and you should see him among the girls. He enjoys dancing, sports, 'n everything that equals his social standing. He did not win a D. S. C. from Uncle Sam but he was wounded in some social battles among the Raleigh Hill damsels.

Since entering at State "Bob" has learned to carry matches, spit through his teeth, and discovered "there ain't no Santa Claus." He also learned to tell fortunes better than most "State Fair" soothsayers.

When it comes to work he is there with the goods. "Bob" has many friends here who wish him the best of luck. We all wish we had his frank and cheerful disposition.

We have often thought that this good looking gentleman missed his calling he should have been a lawyer. Not that he won't make good at Textiles, but because he can argue you into believing black is white any day in the week. Arguing is his long suit, and although he does not always win out, when he starts the rest of us might as well stop and quietly listen to his oratorical monologue, and the present him with the pup.

But "Dick" has plenty of good common sense. He has such a knack of making friends and helping others in a quiet sort of way that he is well liked on the campus. He served with the "Old Hickory" Division in France, and carries some scars yet to prove that he did his part overseas.

We imported "Elmer" from Virginia, and as is usually the case, we got a very superior article. We don't know whether or not he is one of the famous F. F. V., but we are sure of one thing, he has taken first place in a great many things at N. C. State College. It would be utterly useless for us to try to predict anything concerning his future, but if we may be permitted to do so, we would suggest that his proper calling would be the head of the Board of Trustees of N. C. C. W. He seems to be very much interested in that institution, and is kept informed of the doings over there each day through his "daily dozen" at the postoffice.

Now don't get excited for "Kiser Bill" is not nearly so hard as the name would suggest for he has child-like love for cats and keeps one for a mascot. His exposition before the Agricultural Club on his trained animals was enjoyed by all. With his natural turn with animals we are sure he will make a "Big Cheese" in the "Lion Tamers" Club. Unlike most boys he is absolutely quiet about his love affairs, but we know that he gets pink letters from back home which he hides under his coat until he reaches the seclusion of his room.

If industry, loyalty and friendliness is a means of attaining fortune, we are certain of great things from "Mose" because he is ever busy, and never has any time to waste.

"Suzie" is a good-natured fellow and a friend to every man on the campus. When he first entered college he was unusually quiet, but now he has changed considerably and you will often find him in the mid-st of the hottest arguments. Besides always being late at formations at Camp McClellan and classes at State he has won high honors in scholarship. He doesn't social a great deal because he has so much other stuff to do.

He is noted for his drawings and cartoons, and has been the best, hardest-working, and most conscientious Art Editor an "Agromeck" ever had. He has always proven to us that he is bound for a happy and successful life.

"Bruce" is one of those fellows about whom you can say, "There is nothing short about him unless it is his stature." He says he was born unlucky, that he can't even get by with calling the military police "Mama's Pet."

His greatest trouble with the girls is that they all want to marry him. You would think from the letters that he gets that he was in the mail order business, but not so, for these letters are from his numerous girls.

The College sends out in "Bruce" a real star, one of whom his classmates will be glad to say, "I was in College with him."

"Tom" is from Belmont but he can't help that, in fact we did not know that it was on the map until he told us about crossing this desolate area on grape vines to find his way to College, and that it is out from Charlotte.

His favorite pastime is arguing—he will argue with a sign post that has no writing on it. "Tom's" forceful manner of speech, his frankness and fairness to everyone, has won for him the friendship of every man on the hill. For several years he has been known in the athletic world as a consistent basketball player; yes, and in his senior year his teammates saw fit to make him their captain.

It is rumored that he has also waged a successful campaign against a certain fair heart of Raleigh but he himself is too modest to make any statements for publication. And here, ladies and gentlemen, we have the brains of the Senior Electricals. For good old common horse sense, we believe that "F. B." scarcely has an equal in State's entire student body. Buzz McIntyre's most complicated circuit or most complex chemical formula is all along in the day's work for "F. B.," and does not even tend to cause him to drop out of synchronism. "Looper" is one of Uncle Sam's boys who helped out over there, and even now he delights in telling of his thrilling experiences with "Jerry." He has not emphasized the social side of life as much as he will probably do later on, as he is a believer in the one-thing-at-a-time-theory. Modest, unassuming, gentlemanly in his every word and act, "F. B." cannot but make good.

"Squirt" was rather an unknown issue around here until he dropped like a bolt of lightning out of a clear sky into our midst a little over a year ago from Clemson College. But you can't keep a good man down. His readiness to pitch in and help right or wrong have won for him many friends during his abbreviated stay and he is now one of our leading "Cake Eaters."

He is a quick and logical thinker, a hard and steady worker with a great deal of determination, and will make a success at anything he goes into, textile or anything else.

"Dunk" entered State in the fall of '16 but like many other of the sons of State College, he answered his country's call and attended the First Officers' Training Camp, being commissioned a "Shave Tail." He came back to State in the fall of '21 and we find him now ready to go out and conquer the world as he did the many barriers which presented themselves while a student here.

"Dunk" is always ready for anything that will help State College and North Carolina.

The ladies say he is handsome and they must be right. At any rate "Sam" possesses some kind of magnetism—manifested by his smile—that wins them.

Despite the fact that he is no less efficient in other activities, as a leader he possesses initiative and judgment.

Though his studies have never given him any real worry, where is the one who can get more with as little apparent effort.

As in many others, we have found "Sam" a pal, a friend, a gentleman with a host of friends who will miss his congenial jolly personality after leaving school.

"By Gunnies" Mock realized that Virginia was not big enough for him so he used rare judgment and entered N. C. State. We hope that all Virginians are of his type for he has achieved many honors during his sojourn here. He is noted for his dry wit and knows so many jades that a filing system is necessary to keep them straight. He is good looking as well as studious and many are the hearts that he has caused to miss a beat by his winning ways. During his stay with us, "Mock" has acquired no bad habits with the exception of carrying matches. He has learned that all classes must be adjourned by no other than the professor in charge.

He is the kind that will just naturally "gets there" and not take long about it, either.

He is now about to be decorated with the B. E. in Electrical Engineering. No matter what obstacle turns up "Andy" just gets his forces in action and goes over the top.

If "Andy's" time in town has been as successful as his time in College he can probably present other decorations later on. However he is too modest to give out any official information. "Andy" is a fine fellow who always has the ability to succeed.

As yet he hasn't broken the heart of many girls in the Capital City but he admits that he is a sensation in his home town.

He wields a wicked spray and pair of pruning shears and old San Jose Scale realizes that his day is over. As a practical horticulturist we know he is the best there is, and a credit to his department. He is steady and consistent, and a proud member of '23.

With this inspiration he now bids fair to go over the top in fine shape.

Since entering here he has been taught some English, and lots of Agriculture, and we think he has become thoroughly Americanized even on Saturday night. In spite of his many handicaps he has made good, and he certainly deserves his "dip."

The witticism honors for the Senior Textile Class are about equally divided between "Sam Newlin" and Hugh Tate. His fine tenor voice and good leadership have made the Senior Textile choir a screaming success. We will remember for a long time "Sam's" exact imitations of the different speakers visiting the campus, and his unexpected remarks on class.

"Sam" is a broad-minded fellow, and a fair thinker, and naturally big at heart. He seems to know exactly how a fellow feels, and has made many friends and pals besides his tombstone buddy "Rocky" Skeen. He is a good practical man about the textile building, and even if he doesn't make all "Ones" he knows his stuff when it comes to theory. Yes, this is "C. W." of radio fame. It would take several amplifiers and detectors to discover where he keeps all of his knowledge about the oscillating circuit. Our theory is that his cerebral coat of gray must have reached a high degree of saturation. Of course it is very evident that his stored-up energy per gram weight is very high.

If you are interested in the radio bugology, here we have a man who can put you wise as to how all that sort of thing acts. "Preacher" became so interested in things of the outside world in his Junior year that he decided to stop awhile to get into the swim, or at least that is what he claims, but we believe that he just naturally wanted to be one of the class of twenty-three. We don't know through just what process "Norwood" got his name of "Preacher," but we are of the opinion that it was received by cause of his ever readiness to help out the other fellow. When we speak of ever-ready, we are not talking about razors, although "Preacher" is a rather sharp fellow. The social circles of Raleigh will have a great loss when you are gone, "Preacher."

"C. C.," or "Cubic Centimeter," as he is sometimes called, has that native inquisitive mind that is so characteristic of the coming engineer. Often on class he is heard to come out good and loud on the word "Buffessor," when some demonstration that that person is putting on the board does not meet his approval. Nor does he stop till all the mistakes are straightened out. Because of his great ability and perseverance, "C. C." is going to become one of the great men of the future. Just watch him. To those with whom he comes in contact after we lose him, we would suggest that an easy manner in which to engage him in conversation would be by the means of the magic phrase, "high water." "Shelton" came to us from the much heralded sandhills of North Carolina. Since coming to this more firm clay-like country, he has shown us that some of the development of that section just have been due to the initiative of the natives.

A more straightforward, cool, honest man is hard to find. Possessing such qualities has won for him a host of friends, yet he seems to have become most devoted to his "tombstone buddy," Fred.

When "Poole" returns to the sandhills to practice his knowledge obtained here, it would be safe to believe that stock raising as well as peach growing will be on the increase, and add to the glory of the noted sandhills.

He has won many friends at State College through his cheerful disposition, fairness of thought and industrious habits, for he has worked hard every day of his four-year sojourn on the campus.

"Bill's" knowledge of textiles is better balanced than that of the average student. From past experience he understands the practical side of cotton manufacturing, and he has certainly mastered all the theory on the textile menu here. Therefore as a mill man he is the best bet of the textile division of the Class of '23, and he surely deserves success.

"Elton" can do anything he wants to do except pass Math. and he coaches that off just fine. For summer amusement he plays short-stop for the Siler City Internationals. His coaching, many social, and business duties probably prevented him from performing on the State College nine, but as we go to press he is now giving some good man a fight for second base on the varsity.

Seriously, "Skeerectus" is a regular fellow and a hard worker, with a friendly grin at all times that does a man good to see. He has done his part for all activities and organizations at State, and will do more for the State of N. C. later on.

"Salty" won his sea-going nickname as a traveling sportsman hunting U-boats. When the season was closed for that kind of game, "Salty" enlisted for a four-year cruise at State College. In this less thrilling voyage "Salty" has shown rare determination and ability. Besides winning many friends, he has amassed considerable knowledge about the whats, whys, and whens of electricity.

As "Salty" completes his enlistment here and looks about for other worlds to conquer we see nothing but success in view. Under whatever flag he enlists or on whatever ship he sails his friends are expecting much from him.

Unfair to judge a man in his own home town. Yet "Hunter" has made many staunch friends among the student body. After two years of riding the street cars and being late to class, he decided that he had better use some other means of transportation. Consequently a motorcycle has been his constant companion.

Living among his old high school chums, "Hunter" has displayed wonderful strength in the social world, especially during summer school.

We feel sure that all agricultural engineering problems can be successfully solved by our competent "Bill."

Being the only son in the family, naturally "Strupe" came here from Tobaccoville bearing the earmarks of a regular fellow. Evidently he learned to like his sisters while yet quite young and he had to turn such natural affection to some other fair damsel on coming to Raleigh. Hence the frequent visits he makes to a certain place have merited him the name "Friendly Strupe."

As a student we wish that more could show as good a balance. Even Dr. George of English fame gave him honorable mention. Surely no boy will be led wrong in that community that "Strupe" might settle to teach.

"Pud" came from Morehead City, but he says he is not responsible for all the things he has done, so we will pardon him for that. Strong of body and mind, "Pud," with his equally strong personality, has made himself a friend in every one of his classmates. If he can find the engineering world as easily conquered as Derieux's physics, or Johnnie Foster's mechanics, he will be a wonder some day. Believing of getting two or more with one stone, "Pud" has stuck right to his work and has not allowed outside affairs to keep him from the paths of duty. Whether "Pud" catches fish at synchronous speed in the sea of Morehead, or gigs induction motors with Mr. Westinghouse, we are sure he will make good.

"Pat" registered from Savannah, Georgia, but it is hard to think of him except in association with Ireland. He combines all the Irishman's good nature and ready wit, but seems lacking in the Irishman's profanity. Possibly State College just failed to develop that talent. "Pat" when disassociated from his classmate "Fergie" looks like the above which is not bad or at least so the girls say.

"Pat" has all the qualities necessary to make him popular among his classmates. He can also meet those searching inquiries of the professors. "Pat," we are expecting a lot from you, because we know you got the "stuff."

Gentility, honesty, sincerity, these and lots of other equally as good characteristics are natural with "Suttentfield." He is the Lord Chesterfield of the class. If you are looking for a business man see "Suttentfield," as business ability seems to be second nature with him. Our Textile Class surely fell heir to a wagon load of fun when "Hugh Tate" decided to change over to "lint dodging" from Chemistry. It is hard to conceive of a situation where "Hugh" couldn't say something comical to start the whole gang to laughing. If the whole bunch was shipped, "Hugh" would have something ready to cheer us up.

Needless to say, "Hugh" is popular, a man of his jovial disposition and good points could not be otherwise. In spite of his fun, "Hugh" was never known to hurt a man's feelings or make anyone mad. He is another example of a hard worker and self-educated man, and he will certainly amount to something before many years have passed.

No ordinary obstacle can down such men as "Tatum" for he was with the Old Hickory division as it madly snapped the Hindenburg Line. While here in school he has displayed his ability as shown by the number of nineties that he gets each month.

From the many trips that he has made to Boylan Heights, we wonder which he is doing—taking a coaching course in stenography or how to perform an autopsy.

In spite of the fact the Vocational Education was his special course, "Tatum" seems to be vitally interested in the Co-operative Marketing movement in North Carolina.

"Jess" has been among us for four years mingling, mixing, working. Coming from Aulander where he used to play old field baseball, 'twas mighty near to a baseball player that we would place him.

"Jess" seems to be more or less inclined to like the gentle feminine beings but we think that he will return to his native haunts before making a definite decision along this line.

Even though he specialized in Farm Machinery, a general farm in Eastern North Carolina will be the tramping ground for his future work.

Even the instructors are brought to the place of reformation when "Pop" opens his argument in full force. Though he spent a while with other young Americans in the mix-up with Germany his spirits were undaunted. He has attained high honors in scholarship as well as honorable mention in the Married Men's Club.

Through "Pop's" previous experience and diligent application to his college work we feel sure that North Carolina will improve her high schools when he begins his campaign next fall. But we shudder to think what may happen to the boy in his school who fails to do homage to Warren G. Harding.

Hey there, Shorty! Hi Slim! one doesn't have to look around when he hears that familiar voice, for who else could it be except "Earl?" "Earl" is one of those fellows who is a friend to everyone and if you ever see him once you will always remember him. When something is said about a real gentleman, he is the first man you think of. So don't ponder over his honors and popularity, because they are only the natural results of so fine a character. He has never been known to be late at class and when it comes to real work he is always right there with the goods.

This independent and liberty-loving Virginian will always be remembered by his classmates of '23. "Mason" does not believe in letting studies interfere with social activities—'tis said he is a favorite among the ladies.

He has that quality of overcoming seemingly insurmountable obstacles, having proved this by his conquest of Trigonometry. "Mason" or "Sour," as some prefer to call him (but we never found him sour), possesses a unique disposition, acting according to his own inclinations and not by the dictation of others. We wish you great success in life, and hope you will stay down here in North Carolina with us always.

LUCILLE THOMSON

Now, this is "Lucille," State's only co-ed, and the first one to register up in a regular course here. Naturally every boy in our student body is as proud as can be of his "little sister," who has proved such a real pal, a sure enough buddy, at all times and under all conditions. It has been a strangely inspiring sight to see "Lucille" moving noiselessly in and out among the fellows as if she didn't know they were there, or if she did know, she didn't give a rip, and we shall miss her badly when she is gone.

We do not know definitely of "Lucille's" plans for the future, but it has been whispered that she is considering a position with the Marmon automobile people. Good luck, "Lucille."

Some men can do nothing without help, others can do nothing with help. Even though "Berger" is neither of these extremes, yet he understands how to care for "Umberger's" business.

When the time comes for results he is ever there, at other times he is quiet and unassuming.

But on entering College he became so much in love with Freshman English and Math. that even though 'twas not required, he continued right on with these courses.

We all like to be on the good side of "Berger" for there is something in his quiet manner that appeals to a college mate.

ROBERT WARD UNDERWOOD II K Φ

Here's "Bobby," a happy-go-lucky fellow who is always ready for a big time, and date with a certain little lady in Raleigh.

"Bob" started as a Mechanical, and battled with the laws of a steam engine for two years and a half, but finding that steam did not hold any charms for him he changed to Architecture.

He is a lover of things which do not require details. He will without a doubt be a success in the Architectural profession, and we are sure that his first job will be the building of a bungalow.

We are positive that wedding bells will soon ring out for J. and "Bob," and our best wishes are theirs.

"This," kind readers, is little David, the sailor boy and human fly of the class. What if he was bald-headed during his first college vacation! He put the '23 on the textile tower, didn't he? And when he climbed the rickety flagpole to the dizzy height of 100 feet (so the papers said) he was universally called the "Human Insect."

"Van" was a hard freshman, and a good sophomore. He has shown us what it means to make good in college under difficulties, for he has certainly made good. He has had a good many honors heaped upon him, and has deserved them all. "Van" is decidedly a "go-get-'em." When he graduates, the class of '23 is giving the nation one of her best.

Good old "Bob," the man from Seaboard, has shown beyond a doubt that a fellow can remove any number and kind of conditions that might be found hanging over him from one term to another. He possesses a distinct art in frightening timid new men when not a hand would be turned toward harm.

From what he says one would never know what his honest convictions are, yet the student body as a whole believes that he has learned how to drive a tractor, start a gas engine, and terrace a farm better than the average "Wagon Lab." man.

With his executive ability and mechanical turn in farming he will without a doubt make his way in his home community.

Though "Sophia" is "Duroc's" home, he is by no means any less manlike. Sure he must possess some aesthetic taste too for during his Sophomore year he took a special course in growing flowers. Since that time he has devoted his attention to studies in Animal Husbandry and getting himself a wife and judging by the many trips that he has made to Pittsboro he has made a complete success.

We are looking forward to the time when all Randolph County will be one big stock farm owned by "Red."

"Bob" is from Morehead, "the city by the sea." He gave up watching the waves, the sands, and the sea fowls for State College life. Here those eyes have feasted on curves, diagrams, and charts to utter satisfaction. They have also been a large factor in putting the State College Rifle Team on the map.

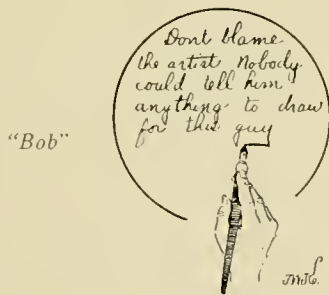

"Wallace" is pleasant and likeable, a good friend to all and a friend of all. He has shown ability and determination during his stay on the campus and everyone expects him to make good whether he goes back by the sea or to some inland electrical center.

When you want a man who has plenty of hard common sense, go to "Jimmie." He has it and he knows well how to apply such sense to his studies. Perseverance is "Ware's" strongest point. He came here with the Class of '20, but Uncle Sam took him along with the "Wildcats" to tame the Kaiser. Then after three years' absence he returned to take up his college work. We would have missed many pleasant evenings without "J. S.," for he is musical through and through—both instrumental and vocal. Captain Price's Band could never have found a man to toot the alto as well as "Jimmie."

We have in "William G." a very remarkable fellow in that he is good looking and a good worker. The fact that he did not have millions to spend did not keep him away from College. He has come to College and has made good, working his way through to a great extent.

He has also made good in his studies. Although not on the honor roll every month he is a consistent worker and we predict for him success in his chosen field. He can say as did Caesar of old "Veni, Vidi, Vici."

Here's the fellow who could not be stopped by even World Wars. Coming here long before the War to take a short course, "Charlie" got a taste of the sweet morsel which he rolled under his tongue all those long days while the Fourth Division was helping to humble the Imperial German Eagle. Then after the scrap was over he returned, entered the Freshman class, and is now acquitting himself like a man, standing always for things that mean uplift to our Alma Mater.

This is another one of the "Business Boys from Buncombe." The girls look at him and say, "There goes Harry." The boys look at him and say, "What a football player he ought to be." It is thought that the girls are what took "Harry's" time and kept him from bringing football fame to N. C. State.

"Daniel," as he is sometimes called, will no doubt some day become a great statesman. It is evident on class when arguing with the professors that he is destined to become an outstanding figure in law, politics, or business. We are sure it is not altogether the name "Webster" that caused us to call him "Daniel." He is a hard worker, and a consistent student, and will some day be a "Captain of Industry."

Hike! here comes the chief cheerleader and money schemer. Without a doubt he is the best salesman in the class, having made a part of his college expenses through newspapers and pop-bottles.

As an athlete "Willie" packs a hefty punch, reigning supreme as a lightweight pugilist. Boilermakers, rivet tappers should not venture near when his famous left to the jaw is being put across.

Not only in College activities has he distinguished himself but as an architectural student he is seldom excelled. And we predict a great future for "Willie" in the field of Architecture.

Nature unfortunately has not endowed "Charlie" with extension legs therefore he has to carry a soap box along so he can look through the transit.

He is a hard worker and though not always at the head of the class, he is there with the goods, and we predict for him a bright and successful future.

Boylan Heights is the center of attraction for "Summie" in Raleigh. Several times during the week he can be seen driving a Dodge Sedan and seldom alone. In basketball he made the squad for two years, but Oh, boy! you should hear him talk about playing golf. But we are not sure whether he is speaking of African Golf or cow pasture pool.

As a student, "Summie's" chief characteristic is self-reliance, always digging out everything for himself, including Calculus, but he had to use a steam shovel on this last. We are banking on you, "Summie."

We didn't know Lincoln was on the map until "Claude" came to N. C. State. We are just wondering if there are any more good fellows like him in the great town.

"C. B." during his first few months at State was very quiet but after making his debut became very popular with everyone on the campus, and especially with Raleigh's fairest.

Regardless of his social affairs, "Claude" is one of the smartest boys in his class. Coming here with a definite interest in textile manufacturing and a desire to learn the business thoroughly, he has shown that he is capable and thorough, industrious and ambitious; such a man is bound to help run Carolina's textile business.

This handsome gentleman is widely known as "P. A." or "Prince Albert," but better known to a circle of horrified friends as Phillip Augustus. He comes from the beautiful city of New Bern.

Married? No. In love? Not to our knowledge at present. Experience in such matters? With those side burns, how could you believe otherwise?

During the four years we have known him he has been characterized always by a joking good nature which makes anybody his friend, and which taken along with his general ability makes a combination that will win "day by day in every way" and all day long.

With his tall handsome physique and straight black hair, "Duke" could easily be a modern Romeo. Back home a short distance away must be his team-mate, a modern Juliet, for he has already worn out one Ford and started on the second going to Louisburg to spend the week ends. Sure "Duke" is a playful fellow but he has long since stopped the boyish prank of pushing one class-mate over another.

Without a doubt the study of Animal Husbandry is his hobby for no experienced chef knows better how to barbecue a pig. Naturally such a fellow would be popular among a band of college boys. "Samuel" is just a regular fellow, that's all.

"Shorty" is a smart student and makes good grades when he tries. However, he does not believe that all of a young man's energies should be confined to classwork and he doesn't.

He is known to the girls as "Tommy" and is a favorite amongst them.

The erect and military-looking gentleman is Captain Yarboro. Since leaving his home at Hope Mills he has learned to be one of Uncle Sammie's Cadet Captains as well as furnish an alibi for his actions.

In finding a man who is a more conscientious and trustworthy fellow we would have to seek outside the bounds of our campus. Strange to say, he is rather inclined to be social among the fairer sex. Even farther than that he has usually on his dresser a likeness toward which he casts endearing glances at the beginning and end of each day. Despite all these faults "Yarboro" knows how to do things. He has ever been active in the things about the campus which stand for college uplift. And we are sure that when he gets into real life such principles will dominate his acts.

SENIOR CLASS POEM

RELECT! And memory brings anew
The scenes of childhood days,
As, one by one, the years we view;
Then upward on our ways
We see our childish footsteps go
Across grim alphabets—
Foundations firm of what men know,
That guard, lest he forgets!

And see! What mighty works are done!
Ourselves we see progress
Unto the High School's door, upon
Whom time has placed success.
Then, subtly ent'ring, came the dream
That haunted you and me—
Conveyed us far up learning's stream
Which gives mankind to see.

And lo! We find ourselves again,
Collegians? Nay, not so!
But rather, grouped with earnest men,
Who, having knowledge, know
How futile life unplanned may be,
We strive for higher things!
The end is nigh. E'en now we see
Beginnings future brings.

Oh gaze! Ye men of fertile mind!
The world's for conquest fix'd;
Our college days sink fast behind
With joy and sadness mix'd.
Down future's path our trail we see
That spreads in divers ways;
The distant voice of 'Twenty-three Sings Alma Mater's praise!

JUNIORS

THE THIRD BOOK OF THE CHRONICLES OF THE CLASS OF 1924

The former treatise have I made, Oh ye Juniors, of all that ye did until that day when ye were no longer Sophomores: how ye were hazed as Freshmen by those Sophomores who preceded you and who now bear the name of Seniors; how ye in your turn hazed those Freshmen who followed in your wake; how ye sent forth mighty athletes to do honor to the College that all might testify to the prowess of N. C. State; but, though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels and leave off those things which I am about to relate, I am become as a slinger of bull or a peddler of hot air. For there shall be nothing hid which should be made manifest; neither shall anything be kept secret that should come abroad.

Now it came to pass that in the last month of the reign of MORRIS as leader of the Sophomores, it being the fifth month of the year, he called them together, and, being old and stricken with age, spake unto them, saying: "Mine own hand can no longer lead you, choose ye from among you whom ye will." And the Sophomores answered as with one voice, saying: "Give us CRATER." Then MORRIS called CRATER, the son of CRATER, to him and said: "This is my beloved successor in whom I am well pleased. Follow ye him."

And the end of the term being nigh, the professors went forth and straightway took counsel among themselves, how they might destroy us. And they burdened us with examinations, grievous to be borne; and our afflictions were many. But PAP appeared to CRATER in a dream and spake unto him, saying: "Arise, and call together the Sophomores; and tell each man to take to his room a book and a cruse of standard oil and sit up all the night in study, fasting, and prayer; and, on the morrow, go ye all to your examinations and write those things which are in your minds." And we did as he had commanded, and passed safely through the valley of the shadow. Then PAP appeared again unto CRATER and spake, saying: "The people that are with thee are too many for me to make them all Juniors, lest they should boast, saying: "Mine own hand hath passed me. Go ye, therefore, to your homes for three months; and, at the end of that time, let whomsoever among you that is fearful and afraid remain, and let the rest return."

And, on the following morn, we departed—each to the tents of his fathers—and, in the ninth month of the year, there returned of the Sophomores one hundred and thirty. Now these were called Juniors according to the decrees of PAP and of OWEN, which altereth not; and these Juniors were we; and we strove, one and all, in daily conflict with the professors, seeking how we might wrest good grades from them, but to no avail. Then we cried aloud unto PAP, saying: "Hear our cry. Oh PAP, let thine ears be attentive to the voice of our supplications; for the lessons which are given us are more than the hairs of our heads. English bows us down, and Calculus confounds our judgment. Wherefore should we be overcome with French? "But one out of the tribe of HICKLE heard our lamentation and spake unto us, saying: "What profiteth it a man though he make hundreds on his Calculus and flunk his French? Or what shall a man give in exchange for his French?" And we suffered in travail and woe until someone discovered a "pony" out of whose face shone these words, "Come unto me all ye whose knees tremble for fear of a flunk-slip; and I will give you a pass." And some hearkened and rode this pony to the class in French, shouting: "Hosannah! Hosannah! which, being interpreted, means "We have found a way out." But HINKLE, when he heard this commotion and saw the multitude riding by on "ponies" was exceeding wroth; and he spake as with a voice of thunder, saying: "Verily, verily, I say unto you, Oh ye children of Beliah, a horse is a vain thing for safety." And, with these words, he plunged us again into despair.

But PAP also had heard our prayer, and he said: "I will have compassion on the Juniors for their having been with me these three years. I will proclaim a day of rest when the Tarheelites come into our land to contend on the gridiron. Then let there be no classes nor even lessons, but let each man do that which pleaseth him." And the Tarheelites came, and they were as grasshoppers for multitude; and all things happened as PAP had ordained.

Now it came to pass that, as we entered our Junior year, we talked among ourselves, saying: "Lo, those Juniors who have preceded us erected bleachers on the Athletic Field, while we have done nothing." And CRATER heard us and said: "Do those things which are in your heart." And we met and decided to do as our predecessors had done; and we called upon each man for a sacrifice, that all might have a part in the work. And these responded to the amount of twenty-two score and ten dollars in order that the bleachers might be built in the spring.

And it came to pass that, among the Juniors, there were some who were workers in iron, and some who were tillers of the soil, and yet others who were warriors. These last were commanded by DANIEL, the son of GREGORY, a learned man who prophesied to us, saying: "Behold, the day shall come when a voice shall be heard throughout the length and breadth of the land, saying: 'To your tents, Oh ye Juniors.' In that day shall ye have taken from you the voice of mirth and the voice of gladness; and ye shall be kept in camp as captives until six weeks shall have been accomplished. Then shall ye be released and rewarded each according to his deserts." And it came to pass that, after a time, a mighty commotion was heard in Holladay Hall, in the midst of which was heard a voice saying: "By Granny, I'm going to deduct thirty cents from the pay of every man I catch in improper uniform." And we knew straightway that DANIEL had found someone with a button missing from his blouse. But we sewed them not back, for it hath been written that whatsoever a man seweth, that shall he also rip. And, when DANIEL saw that we would not sew them back, he exhorted us, saying: "If ye will do this thing for me and work hard, I'll make you officers next year." So the Juniors made peace with DANIEL, and marched and drilled at his command.

Now the rest of the acts of the Juniors and the might and wisdom that they showed, are they not written in the books of the AGROMECK for 1921 and 1922?

JUNIOR CLASS POEM

With us dear class of '24
The time is drawing near,
When we'll Juniors be no more,
But begin our senior year.

Down through the ages it must have been
When we boarded the '24,
We knew not of our stiff routine
Nor our exams galore.

For three long years we've labored hard
Through storms of wind and hail,
But now we see a glimpse of land
Three years have calmed the gale.

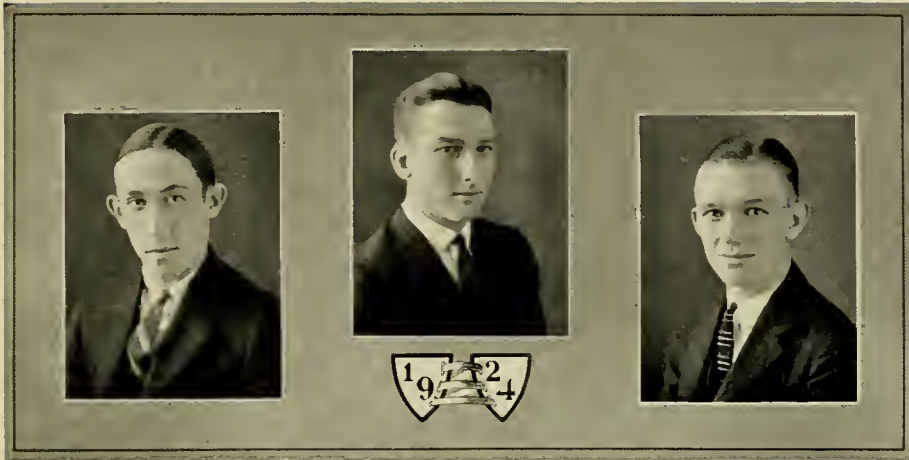

The clouds are broken, the sun peeps through,
It's not all darkness now;
Let's do not mistake, and use the canoe
We'd better use the scow.

Nearer, nearer to the fostered land,
Toward the goal we onward sail,
Stick to the ship and don't disband,
We must attain the scale.

Slowly, but surely we will land,
No tide can carry us out,
If we can only understand
We've got to be a scout.

Of this dear class of college men
There's one thing yet to implore,
That ye be faithful unto the end,
My class of '24.

SOPHS

SOPHOMORE CLASS HISTORY

On September 13, 1922, State College became a reality to the Class of '25. Upon our arrival at State we were greeted on every hand by those who endeavored to teach us our places as freshmen. They fulfilled that capacity to the letter. Nothing was forgotten or left undone. Their slightest wishes were regarded as the most urgent commands of Ahasuerus, king of Persia. We became expert at purchasing "stripped ink" and "long-square-shorts."

At the very beginning we became the proud possessors and sole owners of the envied red caps. We were the first freshmen to wear these since 1915, and were well pleased with ourselves. They were a pleasant surprise to the people of Raleigh and a source of transient enjoyment to the upperclassmen for they soon became familiar with them. Although they were a source of much embarrassment, we were compensated by the unfailing attraction they had for the fair sex. Besides being a parallel example of "José and his cap," we began to labor, toil, and groan under the load of matches. Fire-sticks were constant and inseparable companions and the red caps stuck closer than a brother.

Under the leadership of the all-protecting seniors we organized our class. JOHNNY JENNETTE, our football flash, was selected to lead us through the turbulations of freshmanhood. To assist him with his many duties, we selected "LEGS" FAULKNER as vice-president. "JOE" RIPPLE filled the office of secretary, and "ROMEO" SMITH was appointed chief collector. At once we began to forge ahead. Like so many other freshman classes we thought our troubles were at last ended. We found, to our sorrow, that we had not reckoned with the faculty. We had learned nothing of the mysteries of physics; and chemistry was one of our stumbling blocks. Job, with all his afflictions, could not have suffered more than we did.

About the time we were becoming disheartened and had started on our third case of homesickness, there appeared the star of the east which encouraged us. The bright star—the clarion call for aspirants for freshmen athletes—was answered with such enthusiasm that material was abundant. The class of '25 may look upon its athletic record with pardonable pride. Our football squad lost but one game. The basketball quint won the campus championship. In baseball we showed up well. During these different seasons the older heads kept a constant and approving eye on us. They were scouting for varsity material. To the varsity football we have given JENNETTE, FAULKNER, SATTERFIELD, O'BRIEN, BEASLEY, WALLIS, RIPPLE, LASATER, and HAYWOOD. The varsity basketball welcomed DULS, JENNETTE, WRAY, WALLIS and SHELOR. In track we supplied BYRUM, CLARKE, ALBRIGHT, HAYWOOD, and SATTERFIELD.

For this year's baseball team we have promised many men.

But all this seems years ago, for those who survived the handiwork of the sophomores, the floods at the end of the year, and the examinations of the profs. returned this year with a wiser mind and a lighter heart. Our freshman days were over and we stood upon the threshold of enlightenment. Though we were fewer in numbers, we were bolder in spirit. In the bosom of each there was a desire to make State supreme amongst its sister institutions.

To us, in our finer positions, the freshman was green, awkward, and sadly in the need of enlightenment. They merely existed because we had to have a freshman class. We have tried our best to lead them in the paths of righteousness. We have made a general invasion of the dormitories to see that each freshman received proper care and instruction. Oh! poor, blind, ever blundering freshman, you know not how sorely you have tried us. On one memorable occasion we had to exhibit our inherited authority. This, gentle reader, must needs be set down in story form.

One Sunday morning in January, the twentieth, I believe, a crime, beyond the power of conception was committed. As the sleepy eyed inhabitants of the said college were awakened by the soft strains of the whistle, they received the surprise of their lives. Nothing like this premeditated act of insubordination had been perpetrated during the year. An awful hush prevailed upon the campus. The silence was heavy. No one seemed to be able to realize or to believe the deed had been committed. The crimson emblem of the class of '25 had disappeared. In its place there was the abovementioned diabolical deed of the freshmen. A war pow-wow was immediately held and the doer of the deed hastily sought. Into the dormitories fleet feet fled and immediately frightened, fuming, freshmen filtered forth from doors, and windows. The freshmen were herded together and escorted by the indignant sophomores to the tank.

After the effects of the surprise had abated somewhat, the question arose, "What next?" The answer came as the angry bellow of the '25 bulls. The freshmen were made to remove their trade mark and to replace the magnificent '25.

Those who felt their honor had been heavily trod upon sought the criminal. The roll of the freshman class was called. Their hands were examined for red paint, and the owners of the hands inspected for matches. Freshman rules were cited by others, and everything was in an excited state of affairs. To the sorrow of the sophomores, the trespasser of their dignity remained hidden. He is still at large upon the campus.

Under the leadership of "BUCK" BYRUM our class has one of the brightest outlooks of any in recent years. To assist him we have HENRY DULS, vice-president, RAPER, secretary, and "TOMMY" UPCHURCH, treasurer. With the business of the class in such capable hands, I may leave that subject as being well taken care of.

It would be useless to say, "Take a review of the activities of our class as a whole." They are entirely too numerous to be recorded in such limited space. The most important is the slushing sound of paint echoing from the halls of time. Our motto has always been "Ladies First"; accordingly we blocked traffic from State to town. Numerous and well painted '25's appeared as if from the lamp of Aladdin. Beyond doubt the most pleasing part of this expedition was the appearance of the fair ones. When we had labored much and were tiring because of our labor, our spirits were at once revived by the fair owners of sweet voices. At the time of this writing one may see, while strolling about the streets of the metropolis of Raleigh, the trade mark of the class of '25. In front of Meredith, Peace and St. Mary's, we have proved ourselves worthy of the trust placed in us.

As the end of the second year of our college life draws to an end we are proud to know that we have mastered the difficile problems that we have found. These are numerous, as numerous as the sands of the sea. Our "proffers" will testify that they have never seen such stellar students. True to the belief of all sophomores we say State belongs to us. We are one of the many cogs which compose this machine of learning. We are working with only one end in view. Toward such a goal all our energy may well be directed. If you will bear with me but a moment longer, I shall give you the principle of our class spirit—we are all working for a bigger and better State College.

HISTORIAN.

WO years ago it came to pass,
We entered that unfortunate class;
Rats! here at State,
Then the rest was left to fate.

Some of us pulled through alive,
Then our Class of '25
Became Sophomores brave, and bold,
And our mysteries are yet untold.

We sent that class of '26
Presents that made them all look sick;
They knew the Sophomores were hard,
And it would pay to stay on their guard.

Certainly, no class will ever thrive,
Like this Class of '25;
For when we finish here at State,
We'll all with Dame Fortune make a date.

Two more laps of this great race,
Then the finish line we'll trace;
The winners all will heroes be,
But the losers, that's left to see.

Before we leave this kind o' life,
Where we ruled supreme,
Classmates all, take a drink
To the glory of State and its team.

So we come to the close of another year,
With memories not yet cold,
Of a year that is so dear
To hearts that never grow old.

HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF 1926

While the red topknots of the members of our class may be the most conspicuous feature of the class of 1926, a sketch of our activities from the date of our birth, collegiately speaking, shows that there are other bright spots in our brief existence which bespeak varied class accomplishments during our first year at State.

First of all we have more material with which to work than any other class at State has ever had. The class of '26 with more than 400 members is the largest in the history of the school. The class held its initial meeting September 30, 1922, and started the college year as a class by organizing with the following officers: President, YORK; Vice-President, SEAWELL; Secretary-Treasurer, ELMS. A few weeks afterwards another meeting was held and the detailed organization completed with the election of SLACK as class poet, STEPHENS as cheer leader, and KENDALL as historian. Navy blue and old gold were selected as the class colors.

Our real induction into college life, however, came shortly before our first session when we received our red caps and were distinctly branded the college "babies," for prior to that time there were no outward markings, except our greenness, to tell us from any other fellows. After we got our caps, though, all was different. We made it a point always to have matches when the upperclassmen called for them and thought it wise to greet them with a "yes, sir," and a "no, sir." Of course as we ambled along through the fall months there were many parades, kangaroo courts, and serenades for the Meredith, Peace and St. Mary's girls. In these events our class usually furnished the volume and the upper classes the leadership.

With such a large enrollment, we had a record number out for football. Our class developed the best freshman football team in the State as we humbled the University first year team and established freshman gridiron history at State. We believe that we have a strong claim to South Atlantic Freshman honors on the football field. Some unusually good men were on our team. We expect to furnish some excellent material for next year's varsity and see some of the men of '26 out there next year fighting for State with every ounce of strength in them.

Our class has also shown up well in drill although it took us some time to get rid of our awkwardness and round into the swing of things where military commands were not a complete puzzle.

We dug deeper into college life shortly before Christmas when we met and elected "Mug" SEAWELL as our representative on the Student Council.

The fall term ended with a real nightmare as we struggled through examinations. Lost weight and lost sleep began to tell on us, but we managed to pull through the strain when stimulated by the thought of changing from Mess Hall bull to home cooking for two weeks. Then on December 20 we checked out for home, and all that it means to a freshman, including relief from the red caps. Everything is indicative to the completion of a successful year. We are expecting to put out strong class basketball and baseball teams, and hope that our record enrollment may be carried over into next year and Sophomore pleasure.

HISTORIAN.

TO THE CLASS OF '26

WE are here four hundred strong,
And we come from all parts of the sticks,
But we're a glad and happy throng,
This class of "twenty-six."

Our little red caps we have to wear,
And carry matches too,
And many other things we have to bear;
Our hardships are not a few.

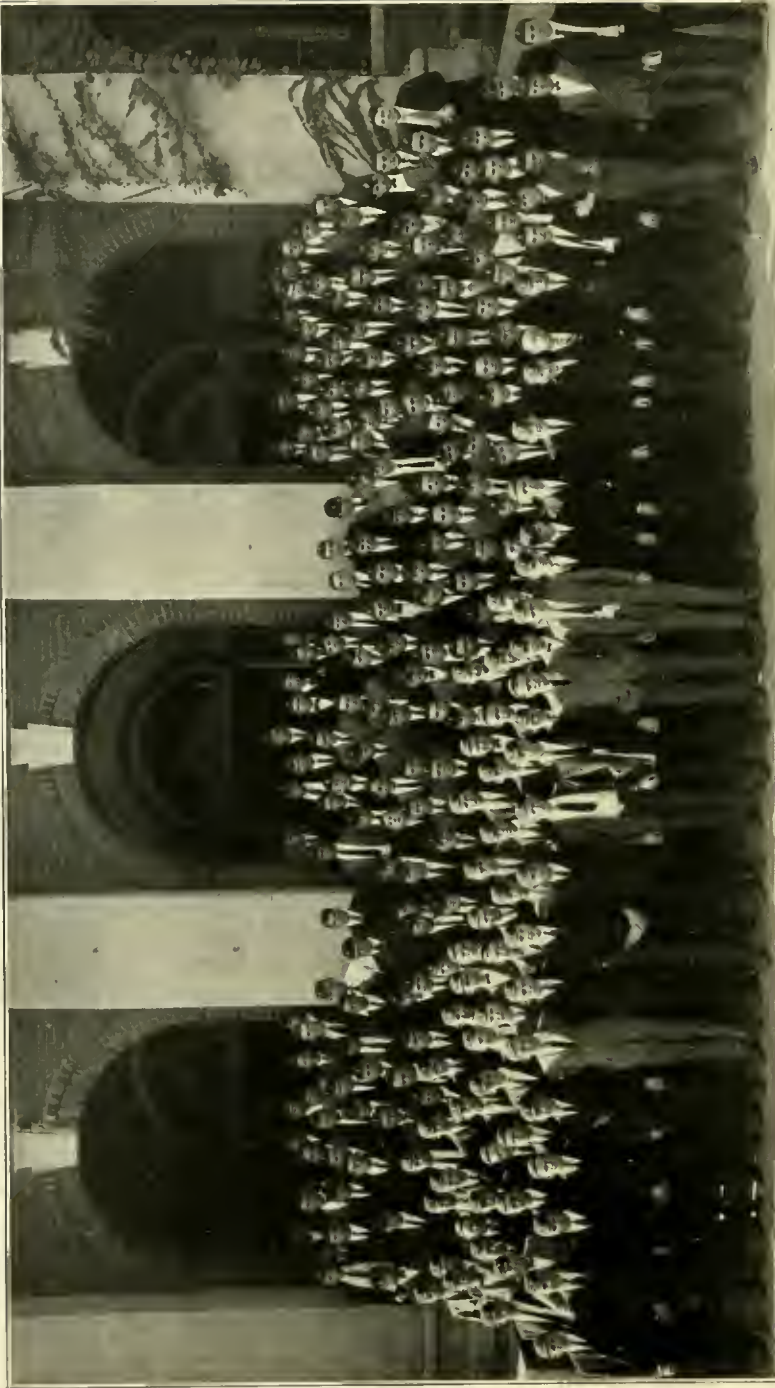

We're here to stick through thick and thin,
No matter what comes our way,
And, if we stick, we're sure to win
And come out at the top some day.

Our freshman year is almost o'er,
Its end is drawing near,
And we'll come back as sophomores
At the beginning of another year.

Year by year in every way
We will strive to do our best
Until we leave this place some day
To take the final test.

So watch us as the years unfold
Until we turn the tricks
And reach at last that sought-for goal
The year of "twenty-six."

Athletics at State

A REVIEW OF ATHLETICS AT STATE COLLEGE 1922-1923

COACH HARRY HARTSELL

While our athletic achievements so far as general success in all branches of sports were not altogether what we would like to have had, we have every reason to be well satisfied with the results obtained, considering the conditions which constantly confronted us as the different seasons came upon us.

The year 1922-1923 for State College was what might be called a developing period in three branches of our major sports. This condition was due to the fact that practically all of the more or less experienced men on the different teams were graduated, and the failure to develop men to fill their places. The writer in this review does not intend in any way to criticize his predecessor for failure to develop such men to fill these stars' shoes, but only wants to make this point clear in an endeavor to explain the reason for such poor prospects for a winning combination. This condition, if you recall, confronted us throughout the entire year.

In the writer's opinion this season was what might be termed a successful year, not from a standpoint of winning championships but from a standpoint of developing men who are destined to be future stars at State College during the remainder of their college years. However, during this developing period we pretty well held our own, constantly throwing deadly fear into every opponent who faced us and completing the year as the runner-up for State Championship honors in all branches of major sports with the exception of basketball. Considering just what faced us, we have every reason to be satisfied with our accomplishments. With the conditions under which State College labored, coupled with the fact that most of our opponents were enjoying their most prosperous year, there is found sufficient cause for gratification on the record we made in 1922-1923.

COLLEGE SONG

Here comes the team, boys, rise strong and great,
We're going to win for old N. C. State.
So while they're fighting let's show that we have no fears,
And make the hills echo with our cheers
Rah! Rah! Rah!

CHORUS

So stick it boys, play the game now every man:
Fight it to a finish, do the best that you can.
While we shout victory, while we shout victory,
While we shout victory and N. C. State forever.

And when they've won, boys, ring out the bell,
Let its old voice the glad tidings tell,
While we proclaim the glorious name
Of our beloved college, dear old N. C. State.

1922 FOOTBALL RÉSUMÉ

TAL STAFFORD, '12

MANAGER TEAGUE

There is something heroic even in defeat when a team goes down fighting—an intangible something that seems to sweep aside the dark clouds of disaster to reveal the glorious dawn of a return to greatness when another season rolls around. The 1922 football team was a fighting aggregation. The record of four victories against six defeats, the poorest made by a Red and White team in recent years, was due not so much to the weakness of the Wolfpack, but to the unusual strength of its opponents.

The team as a whole was green and its development was entirely too slow for the rather ambitious schedule. Throughout the season the squad felt very keenly the loss of ten veterans from the 1921 team. With woefully inexperienced material, handicapped also by injuries, especially during the latter part of the season, there could be but one result—the Pack took the small end of the score in every Conference game.

From the standpoint of games won and lost, then, the season was a failure, but the Red and White banner has been nailed at the very top of the ladder a great many times in the past. It is in accord with the fitness of things that sometimes the Techmen must finish away down near the end of the procession. We have been good winners—we hope we are good losers, also.

The team lost, it is true, but it was never licked. To the last second of play in each contest the Pack snarled and snapped only to be mastered a majority of the times by a mightier foe. The fighting spirit was there, but it was cub experience, usually, matched against a veteran machine. The year 1922 saw a green Wolfpack badly scattered, but by another fall those same cubs will be grown up. Early in the autumn when the long, wavering cry of the gathering Pack is heard from the Lost Provinces to the sea, rival camps may well stir with uneasiness, for the Pack will be lean and hungry, and the trying days of its cubhood will be over. Confident in the superb strength of its maturity, hardened by a year of reverses in the bitter school of experience, when the Wolfpack bares its fangs for the next hunt the crisp days of another November will bear witness to a different story.

State Wins the Opener

Although inclined to fumble, and using up the first quarter in trying to correct mistakes which kept off any scoring, the Wolfpack opened the season on September 29 by defeating Randolph-Macon 20 to 2. Late in crossing the last chalk line, the Techs were quick to register a touchdown once a real offensive was started, and this advancing continued in each of the last three periods, with additional touchdowns in sight except for fumbles and a break that gave the Virginians their two points via a safety. John Jennette, with his sweeping end runs, and Ernie Randolph with his passing were the outstanding players on the offense. Bobby Long also showed a lot of drive in the backfield and contributed two of the touchdowns. Vansant, Floyd, Bostian and Cox performed creditably in the line. In scoring their points Randolph-Macon made up for the failure to register a single first down. A long punt, which the Tech backfield allowed to roll undisturbed, with the expectation that the oval would cross the line, was responsible for the points, as Park fumbled the ball on the play behind his own goal line and was tackled for a safety.

Techmen Lose to Washington and Lee

State journeyed to Lexington, Virginia, on October 7 for the second game of the season with Washington and Lee as the opponent. Played on a field ankle deep in mud, the "Generals" proved to be the best campaigners under the trying conditions and scored two touchdowns in the second half for a 14 to 6 victory, after the Pack had led 6 to 0 at the intermission. Before the game had been in progress five minutes, State launched a vicious assault that reeled off yardage until Park was sent over for a touchdown. Randolph failed to add the extra point with a dropkick. In the second half Washington and Lee obtained the ball on an exchange of kicks and from midfield worked the leather to the goal line for their first touchdown. Again in the final quarter Frew got away, off tackle, for 25 yards and the second counter. Mattox kicked both goals following the touchdowns. Cox, Park, Randolph and Baum starred for State.

State Defeats Roanoke

Showing only two flashes of form, one at the beginning of the game and another in the fourth quarter, each of which yielded a touchdown, State was forced to the limit to win from Roanoke College at Riddick Field, October 14. The game was played on the Saturday preceding the all-important encounter with Carolina, which may or may not account for the unexpectedly small score. It is safe to assume that Coach Hartsell held in reserve for the Tar Heels his best bag of tricks and instead of showing his entire hand. Using for the most part straight rushes and only the simplest passes, the Techmen scored early in the first period when Vansant intercepted a Roanoke pass on the 28-yard line. Six rushes carried the ball over, Long making the touchdown. Jennette missed the goal. In the last quarter an end run of 25 yards by Jennette and another by Randolph for nine yards brought the second touchdown, and Randolph kicked goal. Roanoke relied upon an overhead attack and during the game attempted no less than 23 passes, 11 of which were completed for gains of from five to 35 yards. Twice the Virginians seriously threatened, being held for downs on two occasions inside the five-yard line. Cox, Floyd and Lasater were the outstanding players for State.

Halfback

Tech vs. Tar Heel

A brilliant run of 95 yards from kick-off for a touchdown by "Monk" McDonald, Tar Heel quarterback, was the margin of Carolina's victory over the Wolfpack in the annual State Fair Week game played at Riddick Field, October 19. Aside from this, each team scored a touchdown by consistent marches down the field, and in addition Bobby Long kicked a field goal for the Techmen from the 48-yard line. The final score was—Carolina 14, N. C. State 9. Blount

PARK
Halfback

For such a titanic struggle, fought out for the most part on even terms, the game was remarkably free from roughness, and the best of feeling between the teams and the rival students prevailed throughout. Only two penalties were inflicted during the entire game, State being the offender twice for offside.

for the University making good each placement kick for the extra point after the touchdowns, while Randolph failed to get the oval over the bar.

The greatest crowd that has ever witnessed an athletic contest in North Carolina packed into every available foot of space on Riddick Field to see the Tar Heels even the series with the Techs, the Blue and White victory making the score in games two all since the resumption of athletic relations in 1919. When Referee Magoffin's whistle sent the two teams into action promptly at three o'clock, fully 13,000 spectators were massed around the playing enclosure. In the vast throng were many notables high in the social and official life of the State. Mrs. Edith W. Vanderbilt and her party of thirty, including Governor Cameron Morrison, President W. C. Riddick, and members of the College Board of Trustees, occupied a special box on the west side of the field almost in the center of the Tech cheering section.

Slated in all the dope sheets to lose by a wide margin to the veteran Carolina aggregation, the strength of the Wolfpack was a distinct surprise to its most ardent supporters. Statistics on the game show that in ground gained from scrimmage State was superior to Carolina, the number of yards being 192 and 158, respectively. During three periods the College carried the fight to the University, the play being either in Carolina territory or between the forty-yard lines. In the last quarter the greater reserve strength of Carolina told and with fresh runners behind the line started the drive that was not to be denied.

BAUM
End

The Wolfpack drew first blood when Pasour, in the first quarter, recovered a blocked kick in midfield. State failed to gain consistently and from the 48-yard line Bobby Long kicked a beautiful field goal. Carolina received the kick-off following and immediately swung into the lead by McDonald's epic run. State's touchdown came soon after the start of the second period. With Lassiter ploughing off tackle for from three to five yards every time he took the ball, aided by two passes netting 15 yards, the Techmen battered their way forty-five yards to the ten-yard line. Randolph slipped around end for eight yards of the remaining distance, and Lassiter jammed through center for the touchdown.

An exchange of kicks gave Carolina the ball on State's forty-five yard line, early in the fourth quarter, and from this point Fetzer's men came through with the drive that put across the winning points. Short but consistent gains, with the whole Carolina back-field doing fine work, carried the ball to the two-yard line and Johnston dived over the line for the score.

The work of McDonald at quarter, who, aside from his brilliant run for a touchdown, used fine generalship, and that of Johnston and Fred Morris were the high lights in the Carolina backfield. In the line Pritchard and Cochran stood out above the others, but the whole eleven showed a very high order of team work throughout. Long, Park, Lassiter and Randolph starred behind the Tech line, while Cox and Floyd, the tackles, and Bostian, center, bore the brunt of the work among the forwards. Holland also played a good game at end and showed much proficiency in handling forward passes.

Flying Squadron Tames the Wolfpack

In spite of a record of two victories and two defeats, up until this stage of the season, the work of the Techmen had been as good as could be expected under the handicap of a bunch of raw material, but just here daster raised its ugly head to stalk unmolested through the Red and White camp during a large part of the remainder of the campaign.

On October 28 in Norfolk, Virginia, that busy metropolis by the sea, the "Flying Squadron" from Virginia Military Institute administered the first shut-out of the year by taking the big end of a 14 to 0 score. Battling on fairly even terms all through the first half, the Cadets uncovered a strong overhead attack in the last two periods that swept aside all opposition. The passing game was nicely varied with a punishing attack on the Tech flanks that twice put the Lexington team into a position to score, and each of the opportunities were promptly converted into touchdowns. Bobby Long was the most consistent ground gainer for the Techmen. Lassiter also put in a strenuous hour and the big boy turned in one of the longest runs of the day when he slipped through tackle for thirty-five yards. Tommy Park featured with his kicking and Floyd, Cox and Beatty put up a whale of a game in the line.

Wolfpack and Wildcat

State won its first important victory of the season on November 4 by crushing the Davidson "Wildcats" 15 to 0 at Riddick Field. The score representing two touchdowns, and a goal from the field by Bobby Long. Early in the first period a vagrant football, eluding the outstretched arms of a Davidson halfback, bounded merrily over the turf with 22 players in pursuit.

"Dutch" Holland, Tech end, was the first to reach the wanderer and tucking the leather lovingly under his arm he ran 65 yards for a touchdown. Again the third quarter alertness by the Tech defense, coupled with that oft-repeated admonition, "follow the ball," resulted in a second marker. Deep in their own territory the Presbyterians attempted a forward pass. Lassiter intercepted the toss and ran 25 yards to the 4-yard line before he was downed. From this point Long scored the touchdown. Davidson led in first downs by a margin of ten to seven, but the difference was that State converted everything even faintly resembling a real opportunity to score into points, while the "Wildcats" fell short on all of its chances. Lassiter and Long were the stellar performers for State, the latter filling the gap in the kicking department caused by the absence of Tom Park, who was kept on the sidelines with injuries.

Armistice Day in Norfolk

Norfolk, along with the rest of the country and the world in general, celebrated the signing of the peace treaty on November 11, but the fierce meleé staged on the gridiron in that tidewater city between State and Virginia Polytech was anything but peaceful. The Techmen faced on this day probably the best team in the South Atlantic Division. The Gobblers scored three touchdowns and a field goal, the final score being 24 to 0 in favor of V. P. I. Except in the last quarter, when a fine overhead attack carried the ball from deep on downs. The Red and White line played a remarkable game but suffered severely from injuries, Floyd, Bostian, Holland and Beatty being forced to retire. Randolph, Park, and Jennette were best ground gainers, with Long and Lassiter close seconds, while Jennette also starred on the defense.

Wake Forest Snowed Under

Displaying as much confidence on Wake Forest's new Gore Field, which was formerly opened November 25, as they would in State territory to V. P. L.'s 15-yard line; the Red and White was helpless against the driving rushes of the Blacksburg eleven. During the entire game State registered only four first downs, these coming late in the fray by the aid of forward passes.

"Red" Barron and Georgia Tech Scatter the Wolfpack"

"Red" Barron, the sorrel-topped, fleet-footed captain of the Georgia Tech football team, was the outstanding figure in the 17 to 0 victory of the Golden Tornado over the Wolfpack in Atlanta on November 18. He scored the only two touchdowns made in the game, the first being marked up after a brilliant run of forty yards. A pass, good for 35 yards, gave the Tornado a chance for the second score. Barron again delivered the goods after a sprint that took him from one side of the field to the other and netted a forward progress of a scant four yards. The distance was sufficient, however, even though the Tech Captain was buried under a mass of red jerseys a few inches beyond the last white line. A field goal in the last quarter brought the Tornado total up to 17 and represented the only scoring the second half. Although held scoreless State put up one of the game's fights of the season, and in the final period came through with the longest sustained advance made by either team when a dazzling series of passes, starting from the 20-yard line, carried the ball to Georgia Tech's 10-yard line where it was lost have in their individual back yards, members of the Wolfpack celebrated in first visit in ten years to the Baptist stronghold with a 32 to 0 victory. A more powerful football team pitted against a much weaker opponent brought the inevitable result. State scored two touchdowns in the first quarter and one in each of the other periods, the first coming before the game had been in progress five minutes. Wake Forest fumbled on its own 20-yard line and State recovered. Four mighty rushes, with "Red" Lassiter carrying the ball, put the oval across. State strength and Wake Forest weakness figured about equally in the scoring, three of the touchdowns being clearly earned and the other two resulting directly from fumble by Heckman. Wake Forest made five first downs largely through the use of the forward pass, but their attack was woefully inconsistent. Governor Cameron Morrison and a number of distinguished alumni of each institution attended the game which was played in a biting wind that made the affair anything but pleasant from the standpoint of the spectators. The whole State line performed well, but Vansant and Ripple were easily conspicuous, Long, Lassiter and Randolph starred in the backfield.

Failure to Kick Goal Cost the Maryland Game

Maryland University was the Thanksgiving day opponent at Riddick Field, and the Marylanders won by a score of 7 to 6, Long's failure to kick a goal following a touchdown being the margin of the invaders' victory. An intercepted forward pass, followed by a run of 60 yards, gave Maryland a touchdown in the first quarter. A few minutes later a additional points. The defensive work of Cox and Vansant featured the play for the Techs, and the two ends, Wallis and Ripple, also performed brilliantly.

Thomas Franklin Bostian, of China Grove, N. C., will pilot the 1923 Wolfpack as captain, the honor of leading the team being conferred upon the big center for his brilliant work during the last two seasons. Each year he has held down the pivot position with credit and is rated as one of the best centers in the South Atlantic States. He will finish his football career next season. Playing a roving center on the defense he has been one of the chief bulwarks of the Tech line. During the 1922 season Bostian was injured a number of times, but his aggressiveness and willingness to mix in every scrimmage. He possesses the natural qualities of leadership that should enable him to get the most from his men next fall.

Prospects for the 1923 season seem to be very bright. At least ten of the letter men from the 1922 squad are expected to return to college, and the Freshman team, an aggregation of youngsters that won every game on its schedule, will send up a number of promising men. The schedule calls for the usual ten games, about the only changes being the substitution of Penn State for Georgia Tech and South Carolina for Randolph-Macon. The schedule is equally as hard, or perhaps harder, than that of last season, but Coach Hartsell will have a much better assortment of material to work with and Red and White supporters everywhere look forward with confidence to the next year.

"Hurry it up!" rang through the ears of one hundred and twenty-six Wolflets that reported for practice on the first of October, 1922. From then until November 30, the end of the season, they did "hurry it up," as is shown by their record.

The first game was played October 18, Shelby High being the opponent. In this grid-iron battle the Freshmen showed a worth of material and reserve strength. Chapel Hill High was the second victim. The State Wolf Cubs had little trouble in piling up a large score. Wilmington Light Infantry was the next in line to fall. This was the first defeat the Infantry had suffered this season. State's team deserves exceptionally credit for beating the strong military unit. In Tarboro, November 10, after the Carolina Freshmen had registered three points, the State College Wolflets came back strong in the third period and scored the touchdown that spelled victory for State. Without a doubt the best team won. The fifth game was another victory for State's new men; Atlantic Christian College being overwhelmed by a large score. The Wolflets ended the season by defeating Oak Ridge.

By never bowing to defeat, our Freshmen may well claim the Freshmen South Atlantic Championship.

Thirteen victories against seven defeats was the record of the 1922 baseball season, not the best ever turned in by a Red and White aggregation, but certainly one of the most creditable ever made by a State team composed almost entirely of untried material. That record is a monument to the untiring efforts of Coach Harry Hartsell who took a squad of raw recruits, already figured out of the running before the season opened, and whipped it into a fighting baseball team, that proved to be a real contender for the championship right up until the final games on the schedule were played.

The Tech men lost the series to Carolina, it is true, and therewith State honors, but Hartsell's team was easily the runner up, and experience alone, and not merely greater mechanical ability, gave our sister institution at Chapel Hill the edge. Bill Fetzer had a veteran team at Carolina, a team that played together as a unit all during the preceding summer in the Eastern Carolina Amateur League. The value of this experience was shown repeatedly during the college season, and as a consequence the Tar Heel made the best showing of any Carolina team in recent years. Carolina's line-up was definitely settled long before the team took the field in the spring.

On the other hand, contrast our prospects at the beginning of the year. Hartsell had only one man who could be considered a veteran, Captain Hugh Norwood, centerfield, who was rounding out his fourth year on the team. Redfearn and Blue, infielders, and Curtis and Parsons, pitcher and catcher, respectively, and Ruth, outfielder, had participated in enough games in 1921 to earn their monograms, but their inexperience made each of them an uncertain proposition.

With Blue and Redfearn playing short and second, Captain Norwood and Ruth in the outfield, and Curtis and Parsons making up a battery, Hartsell still faced the exceedingly hard task of developing a third baseman, a first sacker, an outfielder, another catcher, and at least two more pitchers.

The Tech leader rolled up his sleeves and waded in. In "Dutch" Holland, a big, rangy halfback on the football team, who had played a little baseball, he found a third baseman. The kid was only seventeen years old at the time, but the way he handled the tough assignment at the hot corner was just about as nifty as could be asked for. "Red" Lassiter, a husky southpaw pitcher from the Freshman team, was made over into a first baseman. The auburn-haired youngster was a real find. His fielding was uniformly good and he hit the old apple with pleasing regularity.

Another "red head," "Shell" Johnson, brother to our famous Peele and Walter, fitted nicely into the vacancy in right field, and he was also used as a relief catcher. He hit well above .300 for the season. Jim Allen and "Specs" Cline, under Hartsell's able tutelage, developed into first class pitchers, thus rounding out a staff equal to any in the State.

With so much green material there is little wonder that critics gave scant attention to the Techmen during the early part of the training period, and after we dropped the opening game to Furman our most loyal supporters felt that we were in for a very disastrous year.

But the team had just begun to fight. In the next two games we crushed Elon and Delaware University, and then lost a 2 to 1 thriller to the Syracuse team of the International League, which trained at New Bern. The public sat up and took notice. Followed two decisive victories over Davidson, which with the terrific lacings handed out to Lynchburg College, Guilford, and the crack team from the University of Georgia, served to convince the most skeptical that State had once more upset the dope.

Then came the first real test of the season—the annual Easter Monday game with Wake Forest. The Baptists were considered one of the strongest teams in the section, but we won handily by a score of 4 to 2, and on the Saturday following made it two straight by licking them 1 to 0 on their home grounds.

The northern trip followed, and State secured an even break in the four games played, losing to Washington and Lee and V. M. I., but winning from Lynchburg College and Maryland University. Returning to Raleigh the Techs met Carolina in the first game of the series. Inability to hit Llewellyn, coupled with our fielding, gave Fetzer's team a 3 to 1 victory.

We lost the only full game played with Trinity. The affair was staged in Durham with the Methodists on the long end of a 6 to 5 score. A few days previously we had met Trinity at Riddick Field and we were out in front by a score of 4 to 2 when rain broke up the game in the fourth inning.

The second game with Carolina, played in Chapel Hill, was largely a repetition of the one in Raleigh. We hit Llewellyn more freely than we did in the first game, but the lengthy Tar Heel still had the Indian sign on the Techs when hits meant runs. Curtis worked out a beautiful game, allowing only five hits, but these were bunched where they did the most damage. Carolina played errorless ball, while through over eagerness, State showed a tendency to waver under fire. The score was 4 to 1.

We closed the season at home with victories over Washington and Lee and V. M. I., thus evening the slate with these Virginia teams and giving us a record of having defeated, at least once, every college team played during the year except Carolina and Trinity.

As this issue of the AGROMECK goes to press the jubilant crack of the bat against horsehide is resounding again from Riddick Field as the Techs warm up for the 1923 campaign. May we not venture here a brief word in the nature of prophecy? The team this spring will be a winner. There are only three of last year's regulars missing and there seems to be an abundance of material to fill these gaps. A fine array of talent moves up from the Freshman squad and the 1923 Techmen will be strong contenders this year for the highest honors of the section.

Captain-elect George Howard Redfearn, State's brilliant shortstop, will finish his college baseball career this spring. He is already under contract to join the New York American League team when he receives his degree in May. Here at old State everybody believes Redfearn to be just about the best of all of that distinguished list of Tech athletes who have in the past covered that territory lying between second and third base, and there are others now who seem to be pretty much of the same opinion. Says the sporting editor of the New York World: "He is the all-star college shortstop of the South, by mutual consent. He can hit 'em, and he can go get 'em, he has a pair of hands and a great arm and the Yankee office is all 'het' up over him."

1923 BASKETBALL RÉSUMÉ

D. E. STEWART, '23

MANAGER RUTH

It is indeed gratifying, to say the least, to know that the most glory does not come from winning the game, but from playing it hard and fairly. From the standpoint of winning games, the 1923 basketball season has been entirely unsatisfactory. From the standpoint of playing the game we have never had a more successful season, and that is what really counts. N. C. State is proud of the team that has so gloriously represented the true spirit of our student body. "Fight! Do Your Best, Win or Lose." Nobody ever fought more valiantly than our quint, but they were seriously handicapped by the lack of a place to practice. The past two seasons should stand as monuments to the shameful fact that North Carolina State College does not have a suitable gymnasium in which to train her teams. Thanks to the 1923 General Assembly we will have to put up with such conditions only long enough to have an adequate gymnasium constructed.

Early in December Coach Harry Hartsell sounded the call for basketball which was answered by fifty or more students, only three of whom were letter men from the 1922 quint. The immediate task confronting Coach Hartsell was that of thinning down the squad to a more workable size. This, however, adjusted itself, for some soon began to drop out. Then came the task of selecting men to take the places of the veterans "Tommy" Park and John Groome.

The early part of January found Leeper (Captain), Johnson, Curtis, Wray, Wallis, Duls, Emmart, Raper, and Jennette making strong bids for regular positions. With the passing of time came the opening of the season. The initial clash, which was with Elon, found Captain Leeper, Curtis, Johnson, Wray and Jennette answering the call of the referee's whistle, Duls and Raper substituting in the latter half for Leeper and Johnson, respectively. This first game resulted in a defeat, but demonstrated clearly that Coach Hartsell had a combination that would make the best of teams exert themselves.

Then, in regular order came Wake Forest, Davidson, and Guilford. The first, which was played in Raleigh, was in doubt until the last minute of play when Heckman and Stringfield scored the points that left us slightly in the rear. The Davidson game was of a little different order, the "Wildcats" having the edge throughout the contest. The baffling five-man defense encountered and the inability to shoot cost us another game. Inability to shoot was even more in evidence at Guilford the following night when we tasted defeat for the fourth time by only a small margin which could easily have been overcome had even a fourth of the attempted shots been good.

Next came the real fight of the season, which resulted in our first victory. It was, indeed, sweet revenge to take the second game of the series from Elon, which tied the count. At the end of the regular game the score stood knotted at 19 all. An extra five-minute period failed to be sufficient time to break that knot, so that a second five-minute period was necessary. That period was a real test of the fight in our boys. With four defeats as a record and an extra period tie only the hardest of workers can come back strong enough to win; but that's what our boys did.

Lo, and behold! that was the beginning of a winning streak, for the University of Florida, Guilford, and Davidson fell victims in regular order. In the latter two games the best form of the season was displayed.

A few days later Wake Forest managed to nose out a victory from us by an extremely small margin, which gave them the series.

The two games with Carolina resulted in defeats, but it is gratifying to know we outplayed the 1922 Southern Champions throughout the first half of the second game and gave them the scare of their lives.

The season ended with two more defeats at the hands of Trinity. When the final whistle had sounded and the dust had cleared away it was decided that Leeper (Captain), Johnson, and Curtis were to receive stars; and that Wray, Duls, Jennette and Ruth (Manager), monograms, since they had participated in several games and had played the brand of basketball for which State College is willing to award such honors.

Captain Leeper, who jumped center, was always in the thick of the fight whether on the defense or offense. It seemed to be a habit of that stalwart center to get the tip-off and start the leather in circulation among his teammates. Not only did he get the tip-off, but often caged the ball from long ranges and difficult angles.

Johnson, Captain-Elect of the 1924 quint, who played at guard was without doubt the most consistent scorer of the season, being written up as the star in most of the games in which he played. The sorrel-topped guard from Harnett County was a source of dread of many ambitious forwards who found the greatest difficulty in finding themselves clear enough to slip in even a one-handed, ill-directed shot. So good was the work of Johnson that several coaches have placed him on the mythical All-State quint.

Curtis, another last year's letter man, was one of the stellar forwards who with his grace and slyness on the court, often worked himself under the basket and to the bewilderment of the opposing guard punctured the basket which meant another marker for State. This he did so frequently that he must be reckoned as one of State's best scorers.

WRAY
Forward

Duls, forward, who came up from last year's squad, always played a hard, consistent game. Although he did not participate in things spectacular, he was in every play at every instant. It was with pleasing regularity that he wound his way through opponents and planted the leather squarely into the basket.

Wray, forward, was a real find, and came through in great style. Spectacular shots were nothing uncommon with him, for he specialized in scoring points just when they were needed.

Jennette, guard, probably better known as the "Tech Flash," was a terror to opponents when it comes to breaking up plays. His speed enabled him to break up more plays than possibly any other man on the team. He was always where opponents expected him not to be. He has caused many a star forward to sink into oblivion by his masterful guarding.

DULS
Forward

EMMART
Forward

Wallis, guard, and Emmart, center and forward, although not receiving their monograms, were in several games. Wallis, who is a husky 190-pounder, caused forwards quite a bit of trouble whenever opportunity presented itself. He is fast on his feet and covers quite a bit of territory. More will probably be heard from him as a basketball man next season.

Emmart, deserves quite a bit of credit for the work he has done for the past three seasons. He has been a hard and consistent fighter, and his work will long be remembered by the boys, for he is a Senior and will not be back again next year.

FRESHMAN BASKETBALL

This was the first year that N. C. State has been affected by the Freshman rule in basketball. As a result, some sort of training had to be offered the youngsters, so Sammy Homewood was called upon to give the necessary preliminaries that must be administered before a Freshman enters upon his Varsity career. Homewood was very successful with his first year men, and is turning over some very promising material to next year's Varsity.

Under the system of awarding class numerals to those who played the highest brand of basketball the following men received their numerals: Wade, center; Webster, forward; Young, guard; Garrison, guard; Mason, guard; Mauney, forward; Dickens, forward; Shoffner, forward. These men were selected from about sixty-five who reported at the first call for practice. If any of them deserve distinguished mention they are Dickens, Garrison, and Mauney. Dickens was considered the star in almost every game in which he participated. Although Mauney was handicapped in early season by a bad knee received in football practice, he developed into the type of player that make good Varsity material. Garrison, the "pride of Belmont," was a consistent guard all the way through.

1922 TRACK RÉSUMÉ

DR. C. C. TAYLOR

BARNHARDT
Manager-Elect
(1923 Team)

The 1922 track season, all things considered, was probably the most successful that State College ever had. We met every college in the state in dual meets except Wake Forest and Guilford and won every meet. We lost the state meet to Carolina by six points after having defeated them the previous week in a dual meet. In this respect the tables were reversed from the previous year when we lost the dual meet to them but one week later won the state meet.

The outstanding success of the season is best measured by two items: first, that there were about one hundred men who tried out for the team and second, that the sum total of points won in dual meets was a little more than twice the points scored by all opponents. The records of the dual meets for the season are as follows:

State	105 $\frac{1}{3}$	Elon	20 $\frac{2}{3}$
State	74	Davidson	52
State	94	Trinity	32
State	64 $\frac{1}{3}$	Carolina	61 $\frac{2}{3}$
	337$\frac{2}{3}$		166$\frac{1}{3}$

It is impossible to include the state meet in the table because the opponents were not the men from one but from five other colleges. The University won the meet by a score of 54 $\frac{1}{2}$ points. State scored 47 $\frac{1}{2}$. State won 37.7% of the total points of the meet with six colleges competing.

There were twenty-one men who won points for the college in one or more meets of the season. Including the pre-season indoor meet the men who won points during the season scored in the following order:

	Points		Points
Homewood	44 $\frac{1}{2}$	Clarke	19
Park	43 $\frac{1}{3}$	Floyd	18
Blackeney	43	Corkill	17
Morris	32	Byrum	17

Hamrick	26	Elliott	14
Haywood	23	Randolph	13
Corpening	20	Roberts	9

CORKILL
Captain-Elect
 (1923 Team)

	Points		Points
Scott	6	Satterfield	5 $\frac{5}{6}$
Chamberlain	6	Close	1
Groome	5

Counting the indoor meet and the state meet, the team won a total of 408 $\frac{5}{6}$ points for the season. 213 $\frac{5}{6}$ of these points were won by men who were graduated last year. The three highest point winners of the season—Homewood, Park and Captain Blackeney—are among those without whom State will have to fight the coming season through. "Big" Floyd, Corpening, Elliott, Roberts, Groome and Brackett will be missing also.

Captain Blackeney won every race in which he started except his last race in the State meet which he was unable to finish because of having won two previous races earlier in the afternoon. He could easily have scored 70 points during the season had Coach Taylor seen fit to run him oftener. Homewood and Park will be badly missed because they each participated in from three to five events in every meet and were always numbered among the high individual winners in each meet. Homewood scored 16 points in the Elon meet and Park scored 15 points in the Davidson meet. The team lost both Groome and Corpening in the Pole Vault.

There were so many men out last year who received training that ought to count this year that there is no need for discouragement. These younger men should come through strong this year. Track has had two successful seasons. In fact the track teams of the last two seasons have come near being championship calibre, both seasons, winning the state championship in 1921 and losing only the state meet in 1922. These two teams have put track on the map as a major sport. It should now receive the same type of support that football and baseball do. This coming summer a new and wider track will be built. From now on State should win more than its share of glory in this field of sport.

1923 PROSPECTS

The 1923 Track Season, as we go to press, bids fair to be the greatest year yet for the cinder path sport at State College. With nine varsity men back at work and an abundance of new material reporting for daily workouts the close of this season should show that our squad has established many new records.

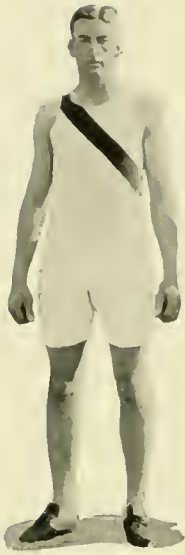

FLOYD

Track is just beginning to come into its own as a major sport here, now being placed on a par with other sports; and this season finds more men going out for track than for any other branch of athletics. We are very proud of this increased interest and look forward to the day when the South, instead of the North and West, will be furnishing many of America's entrants in International Athletic meets. We feel sure that the day is not far off when this will be so. Our Southern states with their wonderful climates, are the logical places for the training that is required for track athletics. We are just as confident also that when that time does come our Alma Mater will furnish her full part of the world's outstanding athletes.

TENNIS CLUB

Beginning in the fall of 1922, the Tennis Club at State College planned great things. The Athletic Association made a liberal appropriation for the re-conditioning of the courts, and the work was completed by the opening of the spring season. Meets are pending with Wake Forest, Trinity and Davidson.

BOXING AND WRESTLING TEAM

D. T. MEMORY, Captain

H. E. REA, Manager

During the spring of 1922, for the first time in the history of the College, a Boxing and Wrestling Team was organized. At the State Olympic, State College was represented in the following classes: Boxing—Featherweight, Hall; Lightweight, West and Lineberry; Wrestling—Featherweight, Crary; Middleweight, Memory and Sherin. The team made a creditable showing, being handicapped, as they were without a coach.

At the opening of the Spring term, 1923, the team was reorganized and a definite plan for training was decided upon. The Athletic Association, not only supplied all necessary equipment but gave the team assurance of two or three meets. The Association also promised a coach for the following year provided enough interest is taken in the sport.

Up until the present only one meet has been held, that being with Carolina. The "Grapplers" from the "Hill" came, they saw, they conquered, but not until they had realized the fact that had the "Techs" been coached, another tale might have been told.

The following compose the squad:

Wrestling—Featherweight, Sherman and Matthas; Lightweight, Foster, Norris and Lewis; Welterweight, Sherin, Morris and Cummings; Middleweight, Rea, Memory and Turnage, Prof. Hutson and Herrin; Light Heavy, Osborne, Gorham and Moore; Heavy, Beatty and Taylor.

Boxing—Featherweight, Hall; Lightweight, West and Lineberry; Welterweight, Bell and Underwood; Middleweight, Weeks; Light Heavy, Doar.

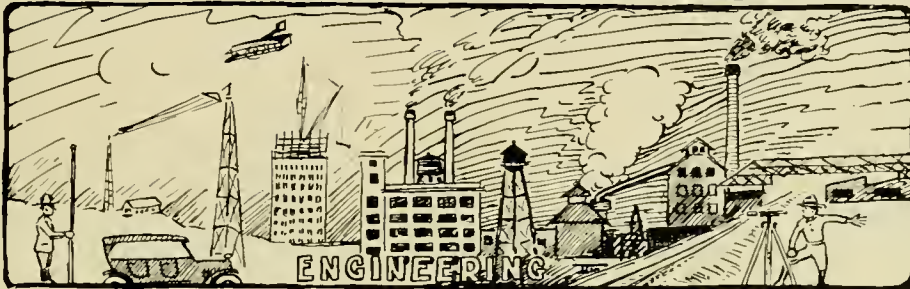

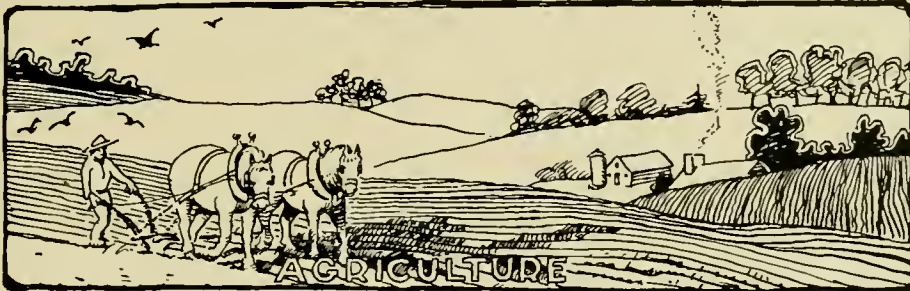

TO THE SCRUB

YOU ask for a toast to the heroes tonight,
To the stars that rose from a battlefield's haze,
To the names that are sung by the public in praise,
To those who were victors in many a fight,

Well, fill up your glasses, and drink to my toast;
Here's a toast to the army, a toast to the host,
A toast to the steel that is worn and rusted,
A toast to the jewel which fate has encrusted—
It's only a drink to the forgotten—the dub,
Here's a toast to His Honor, His Honor, the Scrub.

It's only a toast to the shadows—no more—
You never will see them—it's a terrible bore
Watching them struggling in cold and in rain,
Bleeding and fighting for a Varsity's name,
You say that your heroes struggle as well?
Yes, they get the honor; the Scrub gets the hell!
He's only a shadow—it's all in the game,
He never gets praised, but he's there just the same,
It's only a drink to the forgotten—the dub,
Here's a toast to His Honor, His Honor, the Scrub.

THE GENERAL ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

OFFICERS

President—JOHN A. PARK, 1905, Raleigh, N. C.

Vice-President—C. D. HARRIS, 1897, Louisville, Ky.

Secretary-Treasurer—E. L. CLOYD, 1915, Raleigh, N. C.

Chairman, Executive Committee—C. L. MANN, 1899, Raleigh, N. C.

Secretary-Treasurer, Memorial Committee—E. B. OWEN, 1898, Raleigh, N. C.

Alumni Secretary—TAL H. STAFFORD, 1912, Raleigh, N. C.

The object of the General Alumni Association, as stated in its constitution, is "to further the interests of our College, to promote technical and scientific education in North Carolina, and to keep alive a fellow feeling among the former students of the institution."

Every former student of the College, regardless of the length of time he remained in school, automatically becomes a member of the association when he leaves college. Only graduates, however, are required to pay dues. Of the Three Dollars per year collected from each graduate, One Dollar is used to promote athletics and the other Two Dollars go into the general fund to carry on the work of the association.

The College is vitally interested in its alumni, realizing to the fullest extent that the success or failure of the institution is measured largely by the character of the men it turns out, and the part these men play in the agricultural, industrial and community life of the State and Nation. To this end the College employs a full-time Alumni Secretary whose business is to keep Alumni in close touch with the College. This is accomplished through the publication of a monthly paper, "Alumni News," which is sent free to every former student, the Alumni Secretary being the Editor and Mr. E. B. Owen, Business Manager, of this publication, and by the organization of local units of the General Alumni Association wherever a sufficient number of State College men are gathered. At present there are thirty-five of these local chapters scattered throughout the State and the United States. Plans are underway now for the establishment of several more in the near future.

To the Class of 1923 the Alumni Association extends a cordial welcome to this large group of its newest members. It congratulates each individual man upon the completion of his course of study, and earnestly hopes that as he continues his journey along the Highway of Life, the training he has received here will aid him in surmounting the obstacles that may block his path. Keep the College informed of your progress. Alma Mater will rejoice with you in your successes and will bow her head in mutual sorrow should dark clouds hide your sun. Be loyal with "that restless eager loyalty that is not content to view the College in the halo of a finished perfection, flawless within and without. The loyalty that sees the flaw because it loves the ideal, and will not rest when it can still be seen, is the loyalty that will bear the soundest fruit—never perfect, but always nearing perfection. It is by such loyalty that her sons may best put back into State College the virtue they take from her, and may thereby keep ever paid the debt that opportunity owes to the world."

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

At the close of the second year of Student Government the class of 1923 feels the satisfaction of having done its best, both in creating and establishing for all time, our Student Government.

A few men of the classes of 1920 and 1921 saw a vision of a greater State College, and they believed that Student Government was a gigantic stride toward that Greater State College. They communicated to us their vision, and we, and the class of 1922, worked with them with a view of establishing at State College a permanent form of student government.

The student body voted almost unanimously for student government. The Trustees placed their confidence in us, and Student Government became a realized fact in September, 1921.

Student Government at State College was new and untried. Some of us hardly knew what to do with it, but carried on the wave of enthusiasm incident to its inauguration and guided by the strong 1922 Student Council, we survived the first year.

Then came September, 1922. The wave of enthusiasm was forgotten. The men who had guided our efforts were graduated. Student Government was left to us. It must stand on its own merits. It was the acid test for it and for us. We began in earnest. The faculty, the Y. M. C. A., and the underclasses gave us their unlimited support. Our Student Council, realizing that they must either go forward or backward, chose the more difficult way, and pressed forward. They probably made a few mistakes, but numbered among them we do not find that of inactivity, or of indifference, or of stagnation. The Student Council has worked untiringly toward the realization of the vision of a Greater State College, and their work has not been in vain. We know that Student Government is succeeding.

But our race is run. Our day is over, and so we pass on to the Class of 1924 our Student Government. We pass, not merely a Student Government that has proven its right to a place at State College, but a Student Government that has proven indispensable to the Greater State College.

Let it never be said of any class "They weakened our Student Government."

IF

BY RUDYARD KIPLING

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you,
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
But make allowance for their doubting, too;
If you can wait and not be tired by waiting,
Or being lied about don't deal in lies,
Or being hated don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise ;

If you can dream—and not make dreams your master ;
If you can think—and not make thoughts your aim ;
If you can meet with Triumph and Disaster
And treat those two imposters just the same ;
If you can bear to hear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools,
Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
And stoop and build 'em up with worn-out tools ;

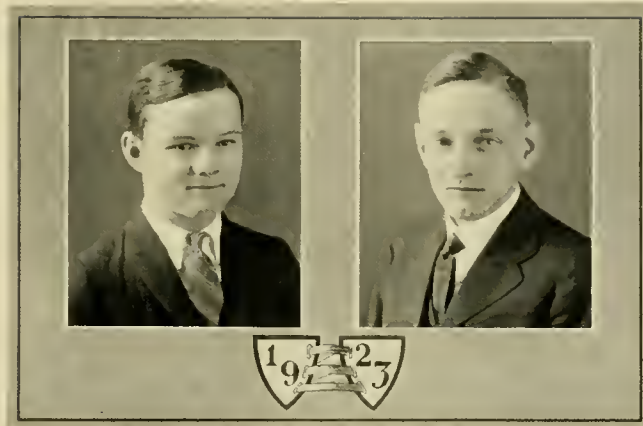

If you can make one heap of all your winnings
And risk it on one turn of pitch-and-toss,
And lose, and start again at your beginning
And never breathe a word about your loss ;
If you can force your heart and nerve and sinew
To serve your turn along after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you
Except the Will which says to them, "Hold on!"

If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with kings—nor lose the common touch,
If neither foes nor loving friends can hurt you,
If all men count with you, but none too much ;
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds worth of distance run,
Yours is the Earth and everything that's in it,
And— which is more —you'll be a Man, my son!

In June of each year, the Young Men's Christian Association holds a ten-day student conference for inspiration and training in the heart of the Blue Ridge Mountains in Western North Carolina.

The conference grounds contain fifteen hundred acres. Abundant provision for athletics has been made. There is a baseball diamond and there are basketball courts, volleyball courts, numerous tennis courts and a swimming pool.

The hotel accommodations are sufficient to take care of six hundred people and there are plenty of classrooms and an auditorium for the work of the conference.

The students who attend these gatherings are the choicest men from the colleges and universities of the South. The speakers and leaders are the best men who can be secured in America.

The former delegates who have gone from N. C. State have donated funds with which a cottage bearing the name of the College has been built on the conference grounds. Our delegations occupy this cottage during the conference.

RESERVE OFFICERS' TRAINING CORPS

The old militarism of A. & M. is dead. Its last vestige disappeared with the departure of the "Commandant." In its stead has been set up a Reserve Officers' Training Corps, the purpose of which is to train State College men for service to the country as commissioned officers in any national emergency. The old drill has been replaced by theoretical tactical work and interesting problems for all classes except the Freshman, who of necessity must be taught the mysteries of practical soldiering on the drill ground. Every man is treated as a gentleman and future officer.

The men for the Senior unit are carefully selected, and only men of high character and ability receive commissions in the Officers' Reserve Corps at graduation. The R. O. T. C. holds an important place in the National Defense Program.

LEAZAR LITERARY SOCIETY

Believing that the efficiency of an engineer depends largely upon the ease and grace with which he expresses himself, the Leazar Literary Society has taken upon its shoulders the task of training men in the art of clear, exact, self-expression. In the past the Leazar has turned out men who have become leaders in their own respective fields—men who have become leaders not because of any extraordinary advantage, but because they were thoroughly trained in the art of self-expression when the slightest opportunity presented itself. Of what avail is the life work of one who cannot ably tell his thoughts to those who are to take up his work and carry it on to perfection?

It is only natural to suppose that a college graduate is expected to become a leader of some sort in the community in which he settles. The man who is best prepared to fulfill these expectations is the man who has been trained not only to think clearly, but also to express himself unmistakably in order that he may help to clear the thinking of those who are more or less dependent upon him for their line of thought. Toward this end the Leazar is doing a great work.

PULLEN LITERARY SOCIETY

It is fitting that the lawyer should plead his case at the bar, the public speaker shout forth his theme from the platform and stage, and that the minister should point out to us the error of our way. But no one knows the needs of the technical world better than the technical man himself. Too long has he been content to take a back seat while some "well meaning" public speaker simply murdered every principle upon which the whole fabric of a technical education is built. The technical man knows his field, if he is a success, and knowing this better than anyone else, it is fitting that he should equip himself to impart to his co-workers and to the world if need be, those things that will help them to succeed.

Pullen Literary Society offers a practical course in public speaking and parliamentary procedure that should allure every clear thinking man not affiliated with our sister organization, Leazar Literary Society. The spirit of team work is exceptionally fine, which is indicated in part by our second double victory in the inter-society Declaimers' and Orators' Contest. Two medals are given by the President of the College each year, and the Society offers four additional ones in the spring to the best speaker in the four inter-society debates. These are but incentives, however, and should not be permitted to obscure the real mission of our organization—that of making its members effective speakers as well as proficient along technical lines.

SONG: "All My Sins Are Taken Away."

PASSWORD: On the Bottom.

This organization was hatched in the "Garden Spot of the World" by the sun streaming down to the tune of 100 degrees, its membership consisting of all the State College members of one Company "E," R. O. T. C., Camp McClellan, Alabama.

In spite of all our hardships we had a lot of fun and a good time, even if we don't especially care to go back again. We lived together, worked (?) together, grumbled together, cussed together, loafed together and played together, and thus added another link to the chain that will always hold the men of '23.

CLEVELAND COUNTY CLUB

Motto: "More Cleveland County Men for State College."

Cleveland County was formed in 1841, and was named after one of the heroes of the Battle of Kings Mountain. It is the home of statesmen who are known throughout the whole country. Some of her products are the Durhams of reconstruction fame, Clarence Dixon, the Webbs, and Max Gardner, the future Governor of North Carolina.

Cleveland County stands for progress.

CRAVEN COUNTY CLUB

MOTTO: "Don't Sit Up And Sit, But Git Up And Git."

New Bern, the county seat of Craven County, is beautifully situated at the junction of the Neuse and Trent Rivers, the Neuse forming its eastern and the Trent its southern boundary. The soil upon which it is built is light and sandy, gently sloping to the rivers; consequently the drainage is perfect. It is only twenty-eight miles to the ocean; thus the climate is mild. This is the largest trucking center in the State. Thousands of boxes and barrels of potatoes, cabbage, melons, asparagus, lettuce, spinach, cucumbers, early peas, beans, etc., are shipped annually, but this is hardly second to the immense business done in fish and game.

FRANKLIN COUNTY CLUB

Motto: "Boost State College."

Four years ago there were only five members in the Franklin County Club. Now there are thirteen members. Superstitious people would say that thirteen is an unlucky number. Whether it is an unlucky number or not we don't want that few members in the club again. Every section of the county is represented in the club. We know that State College is the best college in North Carolina. We are going to try to convince the whole county, too, so watch the Franklin County Club grow.

Due to the active membership of the club this year it has made greater progress than ever before in its history. The club has succeeded in co-operating with every high school in the county through the college paper. In this way it has endeavored to show the present students of our county high schools the great necessity of a college education.

LINCOLN COUNTY CLUB

MOTTO: "Good Instruction is Better than Riches."

Early in the scholastic year 1920, the boys from Lincoln County organized the Lincoln County Club, the aim and purpose being to have closer relationship on the campus and to do our part for a bigger and better State College. We want more men from Lincoln County at State and we must have them. This year we subscribed to the Technician, our college paper, for the high schools of our county. Through this paper we show the students of our high schools what State College is doing.

MECKLENBURG COUNTY CLUB

Motto: "Do Others Before They Do You."

The Mecklenburg County Club is composed of the sons of those sturdy men, who back in 1775, stood as one man against the forces of tyranny that were threatening to overrun the land. Today our home county is pervaded by the same spirit for the cause of humanity, and for progress through higher education. To keep alive this spirit is the purpose of the Mecklenburg County Club.

Carry me back to old Virginny
 There's where the corn and sweet potatets grow,
 There's where the birds warble sweetly in the springtime,
 There's where old darkie's heart am long to go,
 There's where I labored so long for old masser,
 Day after day in the fields of yellow corn,
 No place on earth do I love more sincerely,
 Than old Virginny—the place where I was born.

SURRY COUNTY CLUB

MOTTO: "Eventually, Why Not Now?"

FLOWER: Self-Rising.

The uppermost aim of the Surry County Club is to keep up those old friendships which have their origin back in the foothills of Surry, and that the bond of unity, as manifested in the organization, might help to lead other wandering youths from the home county to follow in our footsteps through the long and narrow path that leads to education.

CLASS PROPHECY 1923-1928

Did you ever stop to think seriously about how much importance is attached to the keeping of records, and how miserably helpless we would be without them? This fact never impressed me so much until after nearly five years had elapsed since the Class of '23 had finished its career as a College unit. Here is the way it came about.

On March 3, 1928, I made a visit to State College and while there I called on Mr. Owen who is still Registrar. Is it any wonder then that I left the campus prouder than ever before that I was a member of the Class of 1923?—PROPHET.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

CLASS OF 1923

STATE OF NORTH CAROLINA) COUNTY OF WAKE)

In the name of "Midget Shipman," honorary member of three senior classes—AMEN.

We, the Class of 1923, being of a sound and disposing mind, realizing that our four years on this campus have been spent, and being seized and possessed of certain articles, ideas, and ideals accumulated during our stay here, hereby will and bequeath them as follows:

To the Class of 1924, we donate in its entirety all that piece, parcel, or tract of terra firma, situated, lying, and being in the aforesaid State and County, and more specifically described as the Riddick Domain, Wither's Resort, Harrison Field, Gregory Maneuvering Grounds, William's Farm, Cox Aerial Station, and Nelson Plant, and bound as follows: Above by a clear sky; beneath by fertile soil, and North, East, South, and West by ambitious alumni and loyal friends; together with all the rights, hereditaments and appurtenances thereunto pertaining.

Remembering the kindly attitude which the Class of 1924 has maintained for the Class of 1923, and the united co-operation given in times of emergency, we further will and bequeath to it our pews in the edifice—Mess Hall, to which our gnawing hunger has led us when mind and body rebelled, provided that said class shall prohibit the throwing of missiles larger than the regulation hen egg, or soaked in "zip."

We further will and bequeath to the Class of 1924 all other special privileges which we have gained, inherited, or otherwise come into possession of, and have not exhausted.

To the succeeding classes the Class of 1923 leaves its beloved co-ed, Lucille ... (in doubt), together with her modern eating establishment, and in so doing believe that we have eliminated all excuses for belly-aching.

To the Class of 1926, our Sorrell-Top Student Government President leaves all of the red and white paint left over from painting our numeral on the textile tower, together with his golden locks which represent the cost of the paint used.

To his successor, Bill Cummings leaves all of the rights and privileges which have accrued to him as "Y" president, regretting that his characteristic bows are entailed property.

Sam Dysart and Joe Skeen leave to J. R. Morrison and "Mutt" Joyner a complete set of solid geometry examination questions from 1919 to 1923.

Major Willard Anderson, having the exclusive right to wear a walking cane on the campus, donates same to the aspiring Charlie Faucette, provided said Faucette can acquire the necessary strut.

Lieut.-Col. C. B. Williams reluctantly leaves to F. S. Trantham his leg on Colonel Gregory, with the specific instruction that all strokes shall be downward.

L. E. Raper, having stamped upon his memory forever a likeness of his Majesty, Van Brocklin, leaves all of his photographs of said personage to the incoming Technician Staff, with the instruction that same be hung in a conspicuous place in the Technician office so as to avoid future mistakes.

To the Agricultural Club, the Class of 1923 leaves the "Scrub Bull," trusting that he may occupy the chair with dignity and precision until his successor shall have been chosen and established.

With our true friends and co-workers, Mrs. Price, Miss Williamson, Mrs. Mason, Mr. Harris, and Miss Mainor, we leave the undying respect and hearty good will of the Class of 1923.

With the Faculty the class of 1923 leaves its profound gratitude and appreciation for all services and kindnesses extended.

To the future State College, the Class of 1923, having at heart the future of the institution, hereby wills and bequeaths to our successors in office, the following properties to accrue before 1930:

- (1) A student body on this campus of 5,000.
- (2) A State College whose campus metes and bounds coincide with the boundaries of the State of North Carolina, and a firm realization that every one of its two and one-half million sons and daughters offer a wonderfully fertile field in which to labor.
- (3) A strong program of extension work, extension centers, correspondence courses, so that the citizenry and the institution may march into the future hand in hand.
- (4) A faculty not merely content to teach text-book style, but engaged in research, engaged in publication, and in enhancing the prestige of this institution.
- (5) A well equipped library of 100,000 volumes, so as to afford facilities for this research and publication.
- (6) A State College which stands out as the leading institution of its kind among southern schools.

Signed and sealed this the 31st day of May, in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and twenty-three.

CLASS OF 1923,

I. L. LANGLEY, Testator.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this, the 31 day of May, 1923.

JOHN DERIEUX,
Official Song Leader.

Undoing the parcel, he disclosed some sandwiches, a hard-boiled egg, and some fruit.

"But, surely I ate my lunch!" he exclaimed.—Judge.

The latest snake story has as its hero a rattlesnake that was raised as a pet by a naturalist. The snake expressed its gratitude by helping to capture a burglar. It coiled the upper part of its body around the burglar's neck, then hung its tail out of the window and rattled loudly for the police.—Sentinel.

AFTERWORD

We are sort of glad that we have only a short while now to listen to the faithful old "Y" Victrola. It has been a close friend and we hate to leave it—leave it all in one piece. The last copy has gone in, and the last instructions have been given to the printer, so Nineteen Twenty-three's AGROMECK is about completed as to make-up and style.

To make a long story short, fellows, we have done our best, and Charles M. Schwab says a man who does that has done everything. Therefore, if our work is not perfect, if someone or something has been left out that should have been put in, or something put in that should have been left out, just think a few minutes before you criticize us too harshly. We have tried in every way to build a worth-while book along original lines. Of necessity and choice, there are things that are standard for annuals which must remain practically the same year after year, and still other things that we could not swing in. But you have the book now, and you can see for yourself. We hope that you will like it.

The Editor gratefully makes these acknowledgments:

To the Student Body, and especially the Class of 1923, for its whole-hearted support and confidence.

To T. H. Stafford, D. E. Stewart, S. L. Homewood, and Dr. Taylor for athletic write-ups.

To each and every member of the Faculty, and Officer of this College for their cooperation, assistance, and advice in publishing and financing this annual.

To the American Museum of Natural History, New York City, for photograph of "Wolfpack Group" on page 195.

To the Technician for giving our work the necessary publicity.

To Art Editor Kittrell for his perfect drawings for this book. He has sacrificed pleasure, time, sleep and study to make this annual the best yet.

To each associate, assistant and contributor, both editorial and managerial, for the good work they have done, without which there would certainly have been no AGROMECK. To A. M. Fountain especially for his poetry.

To White Studio, New York City: Mr. Arthur Leonardt, artist, Andrews and Causey, for their first-class photography and service.

To the Bureau of Engraving, Minneapolis, Minnesota, and Mr. J. J. Sher, for their many suggestions, fine engravings, and service.

To the Observer Printing House, Charlotte, North Carolina—its officers and force—for their splendid work in printing and binding this volume.
